The Silver School of Social Work provides a rich environment for the education of professional social workers, offering undergraduate, master’s, and doctoral degrees. The School also serves as a major postgraduate training center where hundreds of social workers deepen their professional knowledge and skills and earn continuing education units each year. The School is a key source of scholarly research and publications directed at improving the practice of social work, evaluating social service and mental-health programs, and developing new alternatives for meeting the needs of underserved populations. The School’s B.S. and M.S.W. programs are fully accredited by the Council on Social Work Education (CSWE). (CSWE does not accredit doctoral programs.)

HISTORY
Established as part of the Graduate School of Public Administration and Social Service (now the Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service) in 1953, the School of Social Work was launched as an autonomous school within New York University in September 1960.

Initially, only a full-time two-year master’s program was offered. The School later added baccalaureate, advanced certificate, Ph.D. and D.S.W. programs—becoming one of the few schools in the country to provide a continuum of social work education from the undergraduate through the doctoral levels. It was the first school of social work in New York City authorized by the New York State Education Department to offer a Ph.D. degree.

The 19th-century structures the School calls home are located directly on historic Washington Square Park in Greenwich Village and have a distinguished history in New York City, housing a succession of mayors, artists, poets, architects, and writers. The American artist Edward Hopper lived and worked at Number Three from 1913 to 1967. Portions of his studio are preserved to this day. Renovation to create offices and classrooms preserved much of the interior architecture and detail of the original 19th-century homes.

In October 2007, the School of Social Work was named the Silver School of Social Work at NYU, in recognition of NYU alumni Constance and Martin Silver’s generous support of social work education. Their gift to the School, valued at $50 million, is one of the largest private donations to a school of social work in the United States. The gift has been used to:

- establish the McSilver Professorship in the Study of Poverty (“McSilver” is a combination of Constance Silver’s married name and her maiden name, McCatherin); and
- fund the McSilver Institute for Poverty Policy and Research, which promotes new initiatives dedicated to the study of poverty and the better allocation of funding, administration, and services.

DIRECT PRACTICE AND RESEARCH EXCELLENCE
The Silver School is one of the leading centers of professional training in direct social work practice and the development of future social work scholars. Graduates at the undergraduate and master’s levels acquire the core knowledge and skills necessary to work directly with individuals, families, groups, and communities. Students in both these programs receive concurrent practical experience with clients in agency settings, closely supervised in a supportive environment, as an integral component of their social work education. The School draws on the extraordinary diversity of health and social service agencies in the New York City metropolitan area and the tri-state region for its field learning placements and research opportunities. Carefully selected field instructors are on-site in the more than 600 agencies in which students are placed. The School also offers global social work practice and research opportunities to study abroad with an emerging emphasis on policy practice for students with community and policy interests.

Ph.D. students are trained to pursue careers at institutions of higher education as independent researchers, educators, and social work leaders. They are mentored by senior faculty with well-established programs of research and successful track records of peer review publications in high-impact scientific journals and receipt of extramural grant support. The D.S.W. program in clinical social work prepares licensed social workers for leadership roles in academic and agency settings. It offers state-of-the-art coursework on theory, evidence-based practices, research, and policy, as well as intensive writing workshops. The program also provides the opportunity for an internship in either teaching or clinical supervision. All programs have a strong social justice commitment.

FACULTY
Faculty members have extensive professional experience and excellent teaching skills. They bring to the School a wide range of knowledge and social work orientations—spanning contemporary psychodynamic, psychological, and social-theory perspectives and related research. Members of the faculty assist local social-service, mental-health, and health-care agencies in program planning and evaluation through consultation and research. Scholarly work by the School’s faculty spans a wide range of questions, problems, and populations, including trauma, poverty reduction, public health interventions, the conceptual and philosophical foundations of clinical practice, assessment of social work education, and needs of vulnerable populations. Faculty members are also called on to help shape nationwide programs in social services, education, and mental health.

FLEXIBLE PROFESSIONAL EDUCATION

A hallmark of the Silver School is its continuing effort to make high-quality professional training accessible. The School has developed flexible approaches to professional education without compromising its rigorous training. In response to differing student needs and circumstances, four options are available for full-time students in the School’s M.S.W. program: the traditional two-year program; a 16-month accelerated program; an advanced standing option; and a program at Shanghai and New York, along with a part-time, 32-month program for graduates of accredited undergraduate social work programs. The M.S.W. program also recognizes the educational and career needs of individuals who have family and work responsibilities by offering them the opportunity to receive a full professional education over a longer period of time through the extended M.S.W. program and the extended one-year residence program (OYR). M.S.W. students also have the option of pursuing a dual NYU degree program in law (with the School of Law); public administration (with the Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service); child development (with Sarah Lawrence College); health advocacy (with Sarah Lawrence College) or public health (with the NYU Global Institute of Public Health). The B.S. program offers undergraduates the opportunity to combine a fine liberal arts education with the development of basic social work skills. The Ph.D. program offers experienced professionals the opportunity to pursue further professional training and research. With an executive-style program structure, the D.S.W. program allows students to earn a D.S.W. degree over a three-year period while working full-time.

The School offers programs at four locations. All programs are available at New York University’s Washington Square campus. Master’s programs are also offered at our campuses in Rockland County, Westchester County, and Shanghai, China.

CONTINUING EDUCATION

Dedicated to excellence in professional development and the promotion of advanced clinical expertise, professional leadership, and organizational effectiveness, the Silver School’s Office of Global and Lifelong Learning offers certificate programs, workshops, conferences, online programs and events, and continuing professional education. The School is recognized by the New York State Education Department’s State Board for Social Work as an approved provider of continuing education for licensed social workers and mental health practitioners. The School is also recognized by the Association of Social Work Boards as an approved provider of social work continuing education credits, which are accepted in 49 jurisdictions. To learn about noncredit-based certificate programs and additional continuing education programs, visit socialwork.nyu.edu/alumni/continuing-education.

INTIMATE SCHOOL ATMOSPHERE

In many respects this is an intimate school—in its educational philosophy, program structure, and physical setting. Faculty and students interact within a teaching culture in which faculty are very accessible. Small classes predominate (typically 25 or fewer students). A unique advisement program provides both full- and part-time students with faculty advisement throughout their education at the School. Our students have established a number of organizations and informal groups and associations, are actively involved in the life of the School, and participate in shaping changes in the School’s curriculum. Details about student councils and organizations may be found at socialwork.nyu.edu/students/student-life/councils-and-activities.

On the main NYU campus, all faculty offices and many classrooms are housed in three historic Washington Square townhouses that have been transformed into a single modern facility for social work education. The School’s nurturing atmosphere allows students to develop professionally in a supportive and comfortable environment—while having the resources of a major university (and a major city) at their disposal.

DIVERSITY

Like NYU as a whole, the Silver School is committed to equity, diversity, and inclusion. The school continually endeavors to increase diversity among students, faculty and staff; foster a climate of safety and respect for all members of the school community; and prepare students to work with diverse populations across practice settings. Toward those ends, the School actively recruits across the country for students and faculty from diverse backgrounds. A Diversity and Social Justice Committee, first convened in 2013 and composed of students, faculty and staff, leads the school’s efforts to integrate the principles of social justice into its M.S.W., B.S., Ph.D., and D.S.W. curricula. A Social Action Committee guides the School’s response to relevant policy, community, professional and organizational issues that further social and economic justice. The School also conducts an annual survey of students’ views on equity and inclusion to inform future initiatives in this area and sponsors an annual Social Justice and Diversity Grant to inspire students to design and implement programs that address issues related to social justice, diversity, and social work.

In addition to full-time faculty, there are approximately 100 adjunct faculty who teach in the Master of Social Work program and 15 who teach in the Bachelor of Science program.
The founding of New York University in 1831 by a group of eminent private citizens was a historic event in American education. In the early 19th century, a major emphasis in higher education was on the mastery of Greek and Latin, with little attention given to modern or contemporary subjects. The founders of New York University intended to enlarge the scope of higher education to meet the needs of persons aspiring to careers in business, industry, science, and the arts, as well as in law, medicine, and the ministry. The opening of the University of London in 1828 convinced New Yorkers that New York, too, should have a university.

The first president of New York University’s governing council was Albert Gallatin, former adviser to Thomas Jefferson and secretary of the treasury in Jefferson’s cabinet. Gallatin and his cofounders said that the new university was to be a “national university” that would provide a “rational and practical education for all.”

The result of the founders’ foresight is today a university that is recognized both nationally and internationally as a leader in scholarship. Of the more than 3,000 colleges and universities in America, only 60 institutions are members of the distinguished Association of American Universities. New York University is one of the 60. Students come to the University from all 50 states and from over 130 foreign countries.

The University has more than 50,000 students at three degree-granting campuses in New York, Abu Dhabi, and Shanghai, and operates 11 global academic centers and research programs in more than 25 countries. New York University’s global academic centers include NYU Madrid (1958), NYU Paris (1969), NYU Florence (1995), NYU Prague (1998), NYU London (1999), NYU Accra (2004), NYU Berlin (2006), NYU Buenos Aires (2008), NYU Tel Aviv (2009), NYU Washington, DC (2012), and NYU Sydney (2012). Although overall the University is large, the divisions are small- to moderate-sized units, each with its own traditions, programs, and faculty.

The University offers over 6,000 courses and grants more than 25 different undergraduate and graduate degrees.
NEW YORK UNIVERSITY LIBRARIES

The Elmer Holmes Bobst Library, designed by Philip Johnson and Richard Foster, is the flagship of a ten-library, 5.9 million-volume system that provides access to the world’s scholarship. It serves as a center for the NYU community’s intellectual life, housing more than 3.9 million volumes, 51 thousand print serial titles, and over 191,000 microforms; and providing access to thousands of electronic resources both on-site and to the NYU community around the world via the Internet. Bobst Library holds 1,106,335 unique ebook titles, 229,587 e-journals and 1,135 databases. The Library is visited by more than 10,000 users per day, and circulates almost one-half million books annually.

Bobst Library offers approximately 2,700 seats for student study. The Avery Fisher Center for Music and Media, one of the world’s largest academic media centers, has over 61,000 audio and video materials, 10 media-enhanced classrooms; students and researchers use more than 43,000 audio and video recordings per year. The Digital Studio and Data Services offer a constantly evolving, leading-edge resource for faculty and student projects and promote and support access to digital resources for teaching, learning, research and arts events.

Bobst Library’s professional staff includes more than 38 subject specialists who select materials and work with faculty and graduate students in every field of study at NYU. Silver School of Social Work has its own subject specialist on the library faculty. The staff also includes specialists in undergraduate outreach, instructional services, preservation, electronic information, and digital information.

The Fales Library, a special collection within Bobst Library, is home to the unparalleled Fales Collection of English and American Literature; the Marion Nestle Food Studies Collection, the country’s largest trove of cookbooks, food writing, pamphlets, paper, and archives, dating from the 1790s; and the Downtown Collection, an extraordinary multimedia archive documenting the avant-garde New York art world since 1975. Bobst Library also houses the Tamiment Library, the country’s leading repository of research materials in the history of left politics and labor. Two fellowship programs bring scholars from around the world to Tamiment to explore the history of the cold war and its wide-ranging impact on American institutions and to research academic freedom and promote public discussion of its history and role in our society. Tamiment’s Robert F. Wagner Labor Archives contain, among other resources, the archives of the Jewish Labor Committee and of more than 200 New York City labor organizations.

Beyond Bobst, the library of the renowned Courant Institute of Mathematical Sciences focuses on research-level material in mathematics, computer science, and related fields. The Stephen Chan Library of Fine Arts at the Institute of Fine Arts (IFA) houses the rich collections that support the research and curricular needs of the institute’s graduate programs in art history and archaeology. The Jack Brause Library at SCPS Midtown, the most comprehensive facility of its kind, serves the information needs of every sector of the real estate community. The Library of the Institute for the Study of the Ancient World (ISAW) is a resource for advanced research and graduate education in ancient civilizations from the western Mediterranean to China. The Bern Dibner Library serves NYU Poly. The NYU Health Sciences Library & Archive opened its flagship Sid and Ruth Lapidus Health Sciences Library at NYU Langone Medical Center in 2016. The NYU Law Library supports the NYU School of Law’s outstanding legal scholarship and

The NYU Division of Libraries continually enhances its student and faculty services and expands its research collections, responding to the extraordinary growth of the University’s academic programs in recent years and the rapid expansion of electronic information resources.

The Grey Art Gallery, the University’s fine arts museum, presents three to four innovative exhibitions each year that encompass all aspects of the visual arts: painting and sculpture, prints and drawings, photography, architecture and decorative arts, video, film, and performance. The gallery also sponsors lectures, seminars, symposia, and film series in conjunction with its exhibitions. Admission to the gallery is free for NYU staff, faculty, and students.

The New York University Art Collection, founded in 1958, consists of more than 5,000 works in a wide range of media. The collection primarily comprises late-19th-century and 20th-century works; its particular strengths are American painting from the 1940s to the present and 20th century European prints. A unique segment of the NYU Art Collection is the Abby Weed Grey Collection of Contemporary Asian and Middle Eastern Art, which totals some 700 works in various media representing countries from Turkey to Japan.

THE LARGER CAMPUS

New York University is an integral part of the metropolitan community of New York City—the business, cultural, artistic, and financial center of the nation and the home of the United Nations. The city’s extraordinary resources enrich both the academic programs and the experience of living at New York University.

Professors whose extracurricular activities include service as editors for publishing houses and magazines; as advisers to city government, banks, school systems, and social agencies; and as consultants for museums and industrial corporations bring to teaching an experience of the world and a professional sophistication that are difficult to match.

Students also, either through course work or outside activities, are involved in the vigorous and varied life of the city. Research for term papers in the humanities and social sciences may take them to such diverse places as the American Museum of Natural History, the Museum of Modern Art, a garment factory, a deteriorating neighborhood, or a foreign consulate.

Students in science work with their professors on such problems of immediate importance for urban society as the pollution of waterways and the congestion of city streets. Business majors attend seminars in corporation boardrooms and intern as executive assistants in business and financial houses. The schools, courts, hospitals, settlement houses, theatres, playgrounds, and prisons of the greatest city in the world form a regular part of the educational scene for students of medicine, dentistry, education, social work, law, business and public administration, and the creative and performing arts.

The chief center for undergraduate and graduate study is at Washington Square in Greenwich Village, long famous for its contributions to the fine arts, literature, and drama and its personalized, smaller scale, European style of living. New York University itself makes a significant contribution to the creative activity of the Village through the high concentration of faculty and students who reside within a few blocks of the University.

University apartment buildings provide housing for over 2,100 members of the faculty and administration, and University student residence halls accommodate over 11,000 men and women. Many more faculty and students reside in private housing in the area.

A PRIVATE UNIVERSITY

Since its founding, New York University has been a private university. It operates under a board of trustees and derives its income from tuition, endowment, grants from private foundations and government, and gifts from friends, alumni, corporations, and other private philanthropic sources.

The University is committed to a policy of equal treatment and opportunity in every aspect of its relations with its faculty, students, and staff members, without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender and/or gender identity or expression, marital or parental status, national origin, ethnicity, citizenship status, veteran or military status, age, disability, and any other legally protected basis.

Inquiries regarding the application of the federal laws and regulations concerning affirmative action and antidiscrimination policies and procedures at New York University may be referred to Mary Signor, Executive Director, Office of Equal Opportunity, New York University, 726 Broadway, 7th Floor, New York, NY 10003; 212-998-2352. Within the framework of the Silver School’s mission to improve the quality of life in New York City and surrounding areas, the goals of the master’s degree programs are the following:

- educate for excellence in direct social work practice;
- educate students in the application of professional values and ethics to practice;
- advance student understanding and respect for diversity and difference; and
- prepare students to contribute to the realization of the goal of a just society.

Curriculum

The School offers a superior education that provides the core knowledge and experience necessary for working directly with individuals, families, groups, and communities.

The curriculum reflects current knowledge from the field. The links between practice, research, and policy are integrated throughout the curriculum, as is a focus on social and economic justice and working competently with diverse and marginalized populations. In the classroom, students will learn from outstanding faculty who are developing the latest evidence-based practices, and intensive field internships will provide real-world, professional experience.

The School offers an array of elective courses that deepen students’ knowledge and training in one or several specific subject areas. In choosing among these courses, students can create a program of study that allows them to explore personal commitments and professional interests.

GENERALIST PRACTICE COURSES

Close supervision and intensive field instruction make up the core curriculum of the School. This combination provides a broad professional social work foundation by:

- introducing the field of social work with the history and philosophy behind social welfare programs, policies, and practice;
- demonstrating how working with organizations and communities is central to practice;
- explaining social welfare policies;
- advancing ideas related to ethical practice with an emphasis on promoting a just society;
- developing skills for direct practice, relevant research, and use of the research literature;
- teaching about human development and behavior through courses in the biological, psychological, psychodynamic, and social dimensions;
- exploring the wide range of issues pertaining to diversity that underlie social-welfare programs and social work practice; and
- providing hands-on training in field placement settings and integrating this experience and academic study through field seminars and intensive advisement.

SPECIALIZED PRACTICE AND ELECTIVE COURSES

After completing the generalist practice courses, students enter the specialized practice phase of the master’s program. Here, students study the more complex issues of human behavior and train more intensively in effective interventions with individuals, families, and groups.

Students can also focus on macro practice.

Through the selection of elective courses, students can focus their graduate education on specific aspects of social work, such as working with particular client populations, exploring different treatment approaches, examining issues related to service provision in different organizational settings, and developing social welfare and mental-health policy.

Three-credit electives include many advanced practice courses on work with individuals, families, and groups, as well as courses in human behavior. Students can choose from an impressive array of three-credit elective courses to develop knowledge in such areas as the following:

- theoretical models and approaches, including object relations, cognitive and behavioral interventions, and creative-arts therapy;
- populations such as children, families, adolescents, and older adults; gay, lesbian, bisexual, and transgender individuals; immigrants; people of different racial and cultural backgrounds; and
- contemporary issues such as poverty alleviation, health care, disaster and trauma, immigrant family stressors, effects of racism, and intimate family violence.
The School offers a variety of one-credit electives to provide students with intensive training and orientation. Examples include the following:

- Psychopharmacology
- Conflict Resolution for Children and Adolescents
- Substance Abuse among Women through the Life Cycle
- Understanding and Working with Muslim Populations
- Grief, Loss, and Bereavement
- Current Approaches to Trauma

FIELD LEARNING
Field learning lies at the heart of NYU’s M.S.W. social work education and students’ development as clinical social workers. Within the context of the field placement experience and allied practice courses, students have the opportunity to integrate theory and practice. Because the School has developed unique partnerships with over 600 public and nonprofit agencies throughout the tristate area, our field learning sites are varied and of high quality, offering students a rich learning environment. The School devotes much effort to matching students with appropriate field learning opportunities.

Field learning immerses students in the extraordinary range of human and social problems that lead clients to reach out for help. Students are trained to work with a variety of populations in diverse practice settings. The experience provides an opportunity both to develop skills and to appreciate the realities of coping with complex problems in the context of specific service-delivery systems.

Through our impressive range of electives and field placements, students can concentrate on specific aspects of social work, including children and families; community- or hospital-based mental health; global social work; working with adults; school-based services; disabilities across the life cycle; working with the aged; social work and the law; and social work policy practice.

Students can select from our rich and diverse offerings to develop specialized knowledge related to their professional interests. For example, if you choose a focus on children and families, your courses could include both direct practice and elements of social policy and law within which practice is embedded.

Twelve Degree Options

The M.S.W. program (HEGIS code number 2104) offers four full-time, two combined part- and full-time, one part-time, and five dual degree options as described below. The M.S.W. program is fully accredited by the Council on Social Work Education. Visit our website at socialwork.nyu.edu.

LOCATIONS
All master’s degree options are offered at the School’s main location at New York University’s Washington Square campus. The two-year, advanced standing, and combined part- and full-time programs are also available at the School’s Westchester campus at Sarah Lawrence College. The School’s Rockland campus at St. Thomas Aquinas College offers each of these programs as well as the 16-month program. Students in the M.S.W. program at Shanghai and New York spend the first year at the NYU Shanghai campus.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS
The Master of Social Work degree program offered by the School requires successful completion of the approved curriculum of 65 credits. The M.S.W. is recognized by the New York State Board of Regents as a professional degree. The curriculum comprises both class and field instruction. To qualify for the M.S.W. degree, the student must complete classroom requirements with a G.P.A. of 3.0 and a pass grade for all field placements. The extended OYR program requires one year of residency (two semesters with a minimum of 10 credits each, including field instruction).

FOCUSED LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES
The School continues to expand its range of focused learning opportunities, including:

- micro-macro practice in and with organizations, where students have the opportunity to engage in both direct practice and policy-practice activities;
- palliative and end-of-life care through our Zelda Foster Studies M.S.W. Fellowship program;
- experience with evidence-based practice interventions for adults with severe mental illness in collaboration with the New York State Office of Mental Health;
- practice in integrative primary and behavioral health care settings; and
- practice with substance abuse and co-occurring disorders, where students can earn New York State OASAS CASAC certification at the successful completion of the placement year.

TWO-YEAR PROGRAM
The traditional path to the M.S.W. degree, this program attracts the greatest number of students. The period of study for this option is four semesters: fall-spring-fall-spring including 1,200 hours of field learning. The curriculum consists of a general-ist practice followed by a specialized practice level. Students spend two semesters each in two different field instruction agencies. These centers are selected from among the more than 600 social service agencies affiliated with the School throughout the metropolitan area. The two-year option permits, but does not require, study during the summer term.

For employed social workers, this option combines 37 credits of part-time study with one year of full-time study (two semesters with a minimum of 10 credits each), including one field placement of 900 hours. A work-study plan is available to applicants employed in agencies that provide an appropriate educational experience as determined by the Office of Field Learning and Community Partnerships. The period of study ranges from three to four years, including two semesters (900 hours) of field instruction.

Admissions criteria are essentially the same as those for the two-year, full-time option. However, concurrent, clinically supervised direct social work employment is required for entry into.
this program. Applicants must have provided two years of direct services to clients.

Although variations are common, a student entering this program in September might have the following course of study in the extended one-year residence program:

32-MONTH PROGRAM FOR WORKING PROFESSIONALS

Designed for those who work full time, this unique option allows you to earn an M.S.W. degree over a 32-month period through evening, weekend, and summer study. This program option is open only to new first-year M.S.W. students. Students will complete their 65 credits within a learning community cohort that remains the same over the first year of the program. Field placements will be arranged primarily during evening, weekend, and summer time periods. The program option features a specially coordinated advisement system in which your practice instructor is also your field learning adviser.

You will also participate in a special practice lab over your first two semesters designed to prepare you for the field agency placement you will begin in your third semester. The period of study for this option is eight semesters, including summer study, with 1,100 hours of field learning. As in our two-year program, the curriculum consists of a professional foundation followed by an advanced concentration in clinical practice with individuals and families.

Applicants must have at least three years of professional or business experience working with people. Admission is selective. Financial aid is available. This program is only available at the Washington Square Campus location.

9 DUAL DEGREE PROGRAM WITH THE NYU SCHOOL OF LAW

NYU Silver School of Social Work and NYU School of Law sponsor a program in which a student may simultaneously pursue study leading to a Master of Social Work (M.S.W.) degree and a Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree. By taking courses that are acceptable for transfer credit in each of the schools involved and through careful course planning, the dual degree student can complete both degrees within a four-year period.

NYU School of Law requires 83 credits of study; however, 12 credits for courses taken at NYU Silver School of Social Work will be applied toward the M.S.W. degree. Instead of taking the required 147 credits for both degrees if done separately, with the crossover of credits from the schools, students will complete 123 credits for both degrees.

Please note: admission to both programs is required. Learn more about the application for the M.S.W. program at socialwork.nyu.edu. Students must be a dual degree student can complete both degrees full-time in three years.

The dual degree program combines the theoretical knowledge and management and policy and health policy and management programs. The combined course of study will incorporate the courses required for the Executive M.P.A. degree (36 credits), in addition to the 65 credits required for the M.S.W. degree (16 courses and four semesters of field learning).

Please note that neither degree is conferred until the requirements for both degrees are fulfilled. The NYU Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service website is wagner.nyu.edu.

10 DUAL DEGREE PROGRAM IN CHILD DEVELOPMENT WITH SARAH LAWRENCE COLLEGE

The NYU Silver School of Social Work has joined with Sarah Lawrence College to offer a dual degree in social work and child development. Students in this program can pursue study leading to a master’s degree in social work and a master’s degree in child development. By taking courses that are acceptable for transfer credit in each of the schools involved and through careful course planning, the dual degree student can complete both degrees full-time in three years.

The program can also be completed on a part-time basis. Ninety-five credits (instead of 113) are required, including a thesis for the M.A. in child development (10 credits).

Students must begin this program at Sarah Lawrence College, completing one year of course work in developmental theory and an observational fieldwork placement. Social work classes begin after the completion of this first year.

Admission to both programs is required. Learn more about the application for the dual degree program at sarahlawrence.edu/child-development. All classes in child development are held at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, New York, in Westchester County. View the application for the M.S.W. program at socialwork.nyu.edu.

The dual degree program combines the theoretical knowledge bases of clinical social work and developmental psychology. Its goals include:

- educate social work clinicians for advanced practice in the treatment of children;
- develop social work clinicians with an in-depth understanding of the life of the child as the interaction of intellectual, emotional, social, and imaginative streams;
- provide an appropriate balance between academic study in the theoretical and empirical aspects of the child development/child treatment fields and direct practice with children; and
- prepare social work clinicians/child development experts to meet the diverse needs of at-risk children, particularly those in the urban setting.

For more information, please contact Clinical Professor Susan Gerbino at susan.gerbino@nyu.edu.
DUAL DEGREE PROGRAM IN HEALTH ADVOCACY WITH SARAH LAWRENCE COLLEGE

The NYU Silver School of Social Work joins with Sarah Lawrence College to offer a dual degree in social work and health advocacy. Students in this program will pursue graduate study leading to a Master of Social Work (M.S.W.) degree and a Master of Arts (M.A.) degree in health advocacy. By taking courses that are acceptable for transfer credit in each of the schools involved and through careful course planning, the dual-degree student can complete both programs in three years. The program can also be completed on a part-time basis.

This dual degree combines the theoretical knowledge bases of clinical social work and health advocacy. It will prepare graduates to be social workers and health advocates for clinical practice with patients and families in diverse health care settings. In addition, graduates will have in-depth knowledge of macro practice aimed at reducing structural barriers to health care, such as poverty and racism. Both programs emphasize the importance of understanding the impact of culture, race, and gender on the development of individuals and social systems.

The Health Advocacy degree begins in May with an intensive two-week, on-campus program followed by a combination of distance learning and on-campus classes. Students begin their social work classes in the fall.

Admission to both programs is required. All classes in health advocacy are held at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville, New York, in Westchester County. M.S.W. classes can be taken at the Washington Square, Rockland, or Westchester campuses.

For more information, please contact Clinical Professor Susan Gerbino at susan.gerbino@nyu.edu.

DUAL DEGREE PROGRAM WITH NYU COLLEGE OF GLOBAL PUBLIC HEALTH

This interdisciplinary, three-year program with the NYU College of Global Public Health is for students who seek to combine social work and public health with a global focus. At completion of the program, students will have earned a Master of Social Work degree (M.S.W.) and a Master of Public Health degree (M.P.H.).

Courses are taught by professors drawn from relevant programs across five schools at NYU, including the Silver School of Social Work; the Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service; the School of Medicine; the College of Dentistry; the Rory Meyers College of Nursing; and the Steinhardt School of Culture, Education and Human Development.

The dual degrees are designed to provide the necessary skill sets for graduating students to pursue professional careers in both social work and public health, and prepare them for leadership roles in community health-care settings, government agencies, and nonprofit organizations in the United States and internationally.

Students in the M.S.W./M.P.H. program would enroll as full-time students taking courses within each program concurrently. The M.S.W./M.P.H. option is available to those choosing the Global Health Leadership M.P.H. concentration.

Please note that neither degree is conferred until the requirements for both degrees are fulfilled. The NYU College of Global Public Health website is publichealth.nyu.edu.

GLOBAL LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES

As part of NYU’s Global Network University, students have several opportunities to participate in global learning. Through immersion in local culture and society, our global learning opportunities developed by faculty provide students with the ability to examine social policy and social work practice as well as contemporary social, political, and economic issues from a global perspective while gaining a deeper understanding first hand of diverse cultures.

During the past few years, courses have been offered in Buenos Aires, Argentina; Paris, France; Puebla, Mexico; Santiago, Dominican Republic; Tel Aviv, Israel; and Weisbaden, Germany.

NON-MATRICULATED PROGRAM

Students may take one or two courses a semester without making a commitment to a degree program. Students later admitted to the master’s degree program may receive credit for as many as four courses (12 credits), from the following:

- Social Welfare Programs and Policies I
- Diversity, Racism, Oppression, and Privilege
- Human Behavior in the Social Environment I
- Human Behavior in the Social Environment II

Students enrolled at other schools in the University are invited to register for courses given at the Silver School of Social Work for which they have the appropriate educational background. Permission to register for graduate social work courses must be obtained from the Office of Enrollment Services, One Washington Square North; 212-998-5910.

Additional courses for which non-matriculated students may register are sometimes offered and may vary depending on site selected.

Admission to the master’s program is granted on a selective basis determined by the quality of the total application. The general requirements for admission to the master’s program are: (1) a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university. Applicants should have a broad liberal arts background that includes study in the social, behavioral, and biological sciences with a minimum of 60 liberal arts credits. Coursework relating to diverse cultures, social conditions, and social problems is favorably considered. Academic credit is not given for life experience in lieu of field education or course requirements; (2) a strong academic record and demonstrated intellectual capacity for graduate education; (3) an ability to think logically and conceptually and to formulate mature judgments; (4) excellent writing and verbal communication skills; (5) knowledge of the field and evidence of a commitment to social work as a profession; (6) evidence of emotional maturity, concern for people, and capacity for self-awareness and personal growth; (7) demonstrated concern and commitment to the values underlying professional social work; (8) respect for diversity. The GRE is NOT required.

Indications of motivation and readiness for social work education include related work or volunteer experience, as well as undergraduate or graduate courses in social and behavioral sciences or social work. If these are lacking, weight is given to the applicant’s involvement in community activities or participation in organizations committed to humanistic values.

The NYU Silver School of Social Work encourages diversity in its student body. Through active recruiting, the School attracts a student body that is varied with respect to work experience, age, gender, income, race/ethnicity, sexual orientation, and geographic home region.

Tuition, Expenses, and Financial Aid

When estimating the cost of a university education, students should consider two factors: (1) the total cost of tuition, fees, and materials related to a particular program plus costs directly related to the choice of living style (residence hall, apartment, and commuting costs); and (2) financial aid that may be available from a variety of sources.

This section provides information on these two distinct but related topics.

TUITION, FEES, AND EXPENSES

The following is the schedule of fees established by the Board of Trustees of New York University for the year 2017-2018. The Board of Trustees reserves the right to alter this schedule without notice. Contact the Office of Admissions at 212-998-5910 or check the Admissions page on the School’s website for further information.

Note that the registration and services fee covers memberships, dues, etc., to the student’s class organization and entitles the student to membership in such University activities as are supported by this allocation. The student is also entitled to regularly receive those University and college publications that are supported in whole or in part by the student activities fund. It also includes the University’s health services, emergency and accident coverage, and technology fee.

All fees are payable at the time of registration. The Office of the Bursar is located at 383 Lafayette Street. Checks and drafts are to be drawn to the order of New York University for the exact amount of the tuition and fees required. In the case of overpayment, the balance is refunded on request by filing a refund application in the Office of the Bursar.

A fee will be charged if payment is not made by the due date indicated on the student’s statement.

The unpaid balance of a student’s account is also subject to an interest charge of 12 percent per annum from the first day of class until payment is received.

Holders of New York State Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) awards will be allowed credit toward their tuition fees in the amount of their entitlement, provided they are New York State residents, are enrolled on a full-time basis, and present with their schedule/bill the Award Certificate for the applicable term.

Students who receive awards after registration will receive a check from the University after the New York State payment has been received by the Office of the Bursar and the Office of the University Registrar has confirmed eligibility.

Estimate of Expenses for Full-Time Graduate Students

Deferred Payment Plan
The Deferred Payment Plan allows you to pay 50 percent of your net balance due for the current term on the payment due date and defer the remaining 50 percent until later in the semester. This plan is available to students who meet the following eligibility requirements:
• matriculated and registered for six or more credits;
• no previously unsatisfactory University credit record; and
• not in arrears (past due) for any University charge or loan.

The plan includes a nonrefundable application fee of $50.00, which is to be included with the initial payment on the payment due date. Interest at a rate of 1 percent per month on the unpaid balance will be assessed if payment is not made in full by the final installment due date. A late-payment fee will be assessed on any late payments. For additional information, please contact the Office of the Bursar at 212-998-2806.

TuitionPay Plan
TuitionPay is a payment plan administered by Higher One. The plan is open to all NYU students with the exception of the SPS noncredit division. This interest-free plan allows for all or a portion of a student’s educational expenses (including tuition, fees, room, and board) to be paid in monthly installments.

The traditional University billing cycle consists of one large lump sum payment due at the beginning of each semester. TuitionPay is a budget plan that enables a family to spread payments over the course of the academic year. By enrolling in this plan, you spread your fall semester tuition payments over a four-month period (June through September) and your spring semester tuition payment over another four-month period (November through February).

With this plan, you budget the cost of your tuition and/or housing after deducting any financial aid you will be receiving and/or any payments you have made directly to NYU.

A nonrefundable enrollment fee of $50.00 is required when applying for the fall/spring TuitionPay Plan. You must enroll in both the fall and spring plans. Monthly statements will be mailed by TuitionPay, and all payments should be made directly to them. For additional information, contact TuitionPay at 1-800-635-0120 or visit the NYU Bursar website at www.nyu.edu/bursar.

For Arrears Policy, Diploma Arrears Policy, Withdrawal and Refund of Tuition, and the Refund Period Schedule, see General Information for All Programs, pages 62-66.

FINANCIAL AID
New York University awards financial aid in an effort to help students meet the difference between their own resources and the cost of education. All awards are subject to availability of funds and the student’s demonstrated need. Renewal of assistance depends on annual reevaluation of a student’s need, the availability of funds, the successful completion of the previous year, and satisfactory progress toward completion of degree requirements. In addition, students must meet the published filing deadlines. Detailed information about financial aid is also available on the Office of Financial Aid website at www.nyu.edu/financial.aid.

Many awards are granted purely on the basis of merit, while others are based on financial need. It is frequently possible to receive a combination of awards based on both. University scholarships or fellowships may be granted by themselves or in conjunction with student loans or Federal Work-Study employment.

To ensure that maximum sources of available support will be investigated, students must apply for financial aid by the appropriate deadlines.

It is the student’s responsibility to supply true, accurate, and complete information to the Office of Financial Aid and to inform the office immediately of any changes or corrections in his or her financial situation, enrollment status, or housing status, including tuition remission benefits, outside scholarships and grants, and state-sponsored, prepaid college-savings plans.

A student who has received a financial aid award must inform the Silver School of Social Work and the Office of Financial Aid if he or she subsequently decides to decline all or part of that award. To neglect to do so may prevent use of the award by another student. If a student has not claimed his or her award (has not enrolled) by the close of regular (not late) registration and has not obtained written permission from the Silver School of Social Work and the Office of Financial Aid for an extension, the award may be canceled, and the student may become ineligible to receive scholarship or fellowship aid in future years.

Determination of financial need is also based on the number of courses for which the student indicates he or she intends to register. A change in registration therefore may necessitate an adjustment in financial aid.

How to Apply
Students must submit the Free Application for Federal Student
Aid (FAFSA), and New York State residents must also complete the New York State Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) application. (The TAP application is also available on the Internet when using FAFSA on the Web.) The FAFSA (available online at www.fafsa.ed.gov) is the basic form for all student aid programs. Be sure to complete all sections. Students should give permission on the FAFSA for application data to be sent directly to New York University (the NYU federal code number is 002785).

Graduate students must consult the Financial Aid website or the Silver School of Social Work for financial aid deadlines.

Students requiring summer financial aid must be enrolled for a minimum of 6 credits.

Eligibility

Enrollment

To be considered for financial aid, students must be officially admitted to NYU or matriculated in a degree program and making satisfactory academic progress toward degree requirements. Students in certain certificate or diploma programs may also be eligible for consideration. Generally, University-administered aid is awarded to full-time students. Half-time students (fewer than 12 but at least 6 credits per semester) may be eligible for a Federal Stafford Loan or a Federal PLUS Loan, but they must also maintain satisfactory academic progress.

Renewal Eligibility

Financial aid awards are not automatically renewed each year. Continuing students must submit a FAFSA each year by the NYU deadline, continue to demonstrate financial need, make satisfactory progress toward degree requirements, and be in good academic standing.

Citizenship

In order to be eligible for aid from NYU and from federal and state government sources, students must be classified either as U.S. citizens or as eligible noncitizens. Students are considered to be eligible for financial aid purposes if one of the following conditions applies: U.S. permanent resident with an Alien Registration Receipt Card I-551 (“green card”). Other eligible noncitizen with an Arrival-Departure Record (I-94) showing any one of the following designations:

- “Refugee,”
- “Indefinite Parole,”
- “Humanitarian Parole,”
- “Asylum Granted,” or
- “Cuban-Haitian Entrant.”

Withdrawal

Students should follow the official academic withdrawal policy described in this bulletin. Those receiving federal aid who withdraw completely may be billed for remaining balances resulting from the mandatory return of funds to the U.S. government. The amount of federal aid “earned” up to that point is determined by the withdrawal date and a calculation based on the federally prescribed formula. Generally, federal assistance is earned on a pro-rata basis.

For more information regarding Withdrawal and Refund of Tuition, see General Information for All Programs, page 62-66.

Fellowships, Scholarships, Grants, Traineeships

State Grants
New York State offers a wide variety of grants and scholarships to residents. Although application is made directly to the state and grants are awarded by the state, the amount each student is expected to receive is estimated and taken into account by the University when assembling the student’s financial aid package.

New York State Tuition Assistance Program (TAP)
Legal residents of the state of New York who are enrolled in a full-time degree program of at least 12 credit points a term, or the equivalent, may be eligible for awards under this program. The award varies, depending on income and tuition cost. Students applying for TAP must do so via a FAFSA application (see the How to Apply section, page 24). Submit the completed application as instructed. For more information about TAP, visit www.nyu.edu/financial.aid.

States Other Than New York
Some students from outside New York State may qualify for funds from their own state scholarship programs that can be used at New York University. Contact your state financial aid agency (call 1-800-433-3243 to get its telephone number and address) to ask about program requirements and application procedures. When you receive an eligibility notice from your state program, you should submit it to the New York University Office of Financial Aid in advance of registration.

Veterans Benefits
Various programs provide educational benefits for spouses, sons, and daughters of deceased or permanently disabled veterans as well as for veterans and in-service personnel who served on active duty in the United States Armed Forces after January 1, 1955. In these programs the amount of benefits varies. For the academic year 2017-2018, the Silver School is proud to offer our veterans an award up to $7,500 from the Yellow Ribbon program and up to a matching $7,500 from the VA if eligible. A student receiving Yellow Ribbon funds is still eligible for tuition scholarship. E-mail silver.admissions@nyu.edu for the application fee waiver code.

Applications and further information may be obtained from the student’s regional office of the Department of Veterans Affairs. Additional guidance may be obtained from the Office of the University Registrar, 383 Lafayette Street. See also the section on Veterans Benefits on page 64-65.

Part-Time Employment
Most financial aid award packages include work-study. This means that students are eligible to participate in the Federal Work-Study Program and may earn up to the amount recommended in their award package. Work-study wages are paid directly to the student on a biweekly basis and are normally used for books, transportation, and personal expenses. On-campus jobs are advertised through the website of the Wasserman Center for Career Development (www.nyu.edu/careerdevelopment).

It is not necessary to be awarded work-study earnings in order to use the services of the Wasserman Center. All students may use the center as soon as they have paid their tuition deposit and may also wish to use the center as a resource for summer employment. Extensive listings of both on-campus and off-campus jobs are available. The Wasserman Center for Career Development is located at 133 East 13th Street, 2nd Floor; 212-998-4730.

Resident Assistantships
Resident assistants live in the residence halls and are responsible for organizing, implementing, and evaluating social and educational activities. Compensation may include room and/or board and/or a stipend. Applications and further information may be obtained from the Office of Residential Life and Housing Services, located at 726 Broadway, 7th Floor; 212-998-4600; www.nyu.edu/life/living-at-nyu/on-campus-living/staff

Scholarships and Grants from Other Organizations
In addition to the sources of aid described above, students may also be eligible for a private scholarship or grant from an outside agency or organization. Some sources to explore are employers, unions, professional organizations, and community and special-interest groups.

LOAN PROGRAMS

Federal Direct Loan Program
The Federal Direct Loan is obtained from the U.S. Department of Education. The total amount borrowed in any year may not exceed the cost of education minus the total family contribution and all other financial aid received that year. The interest rate is fixed at 6.0 percent for 2017-2018. Stafford loan payments are copayable to NYU and the student, and funds are applied first to any outstanding balance on the student’s account. An origination fee of 1 percent will be deducted from the loan funds.

As of fall 2012, graduate students qualify for only unsubsidized loans. For Federal Direct Unsubsidized loans, interest is accrued and added to the principal of the loan. A graduate student may borrow up to a total of $20,500—$10,250 per semester—in unsubsidized Direct loans.

For details about additional unsubsidized amounts available and the maximum aggregate limits for all Stafford loans combined, see our website at www.nyu.edu/admissions/financial-aid-and-scholarships/types-of-financial-aid.

Federal Direct PLUS Loan Program
The PLUS loan enables graduate students to borrow up to the full amount of an NYU education minus other aid. The interest rate is fixed at 7.0 percent. An origination fee of 4.27 percent will be deducted from the loan funds. PLUS loan disbursements are made copayable to NYU and the student, and funds are applied first to the current year’s outstanding balance on the student’s account.

Private Loans
A private (nonfederal) loan may be a financing option for students who are not eligible for federal aid or who need additional funding beyond the maximum amounts offered by federal loans. For more information on the terms and conditions of suggested private loans (as well as applications), visit www.nyu.edu/admissions/financial-aid-and-scholarships/types-of-financial-aid.

OTHER SOURCES OF FINANCIAL AID

Employee Education Plans
Many companies pay all or part of the tuition of their employees under tuition-refund plans. Employed students attending the University should ask their personnel officers or training directors about the existence of a company tuition plan. Students must also notify the Silver School of Social Work Office of Admissions if they receive this benefit.

For further information about financial aid for M.S.W. study, visit our website’s Financial Aid page in the Admissions section.

NYU Employees
NYU employees who are receiving tuition-remission benefits are generally ineligible for scholarship assistance. However, these students may be eligible to apply for a student loan.

(Note: Registration in other than registered or approved programs may jeopardize eligibility for certain student aid)
Academic Policies

ADVANCE AND WAIVER CREDIT
You may be eligible to receive credit for courses taken at a Council on Social Work Education (CSWE) accredited program of social work or graduate degree program in a field related to social work. You can apply for a maximum of 12 advance or waiver credits (3 can be for electives, i.e., one 3-credit elective). The following criteria must be met in order for advance or waiver credit to be considered:
- You must have received a grade of 'B' or higher;
- The course must have been taken in the past five years;
- The course is not a field instruction or required social work practice course.

We strongly suggest that you read the course descriptions on our website (http://socialwork.nyu.edu/academics/msw/course-descriptions.html) before applying for advance or waiver credit. It is important to determine if the courses taken elsewhere and the courses at Silver are similar because credit can only be given for courses that cover the same material.

You can apply for advance credit if you completed comparable graduate coursework in a similar social science discipline or CSWE accredited social work program and the course taken at another school was not used toward receipt of another degree. Advance credit allows you to replace required MSW coursework at Silver with coursework taken at another school. This means you will receive course credit toward the MSW degree for the course taken elsewhere.

You can apply for waiver credit if you completed comparable graduate coursework in a similar social science discipline or CSWE accredited social work program and the course taken elsewhere was used toward receipt of another degree. With waiver credit you do not receive course credit toward the MSW degree for the course taken elsewhere, but it allows you to replace a required course in the Silver MSW program with an approved elective course in the program.

Applications for advance and waiver credit are available on our website at socialwork.nyu.edu/students/services-resources/registration/continuing-students or by contacting the Silver School of Social Work Office of Admissions and Enrollment Services, One Washington Square North; 212-998-5910; silver.advancedcredit@nyu.edu. Please click on the following link to access the on-line application: socialwork.nyu.edu/content/dam/sssw/students/registration-and-advisement/pdf/advanced.waiver.pdf. You need to complete this application, and upload the following materials with your application for advance or waiver credit:
- Transcript (must include grades)
- Syllabus and reading list for each course

Once your completed application is submitted to the Enrollment Services Office, it will be forwarded to the appropriate Curriculum Area Chair for consideration. Applications must be submitted at least 6 weeks prior to the beginning of the semester. Note: You should submit a complete advance or waiver credit application before the end of your first semester. Incomplete applications will not be reviewed.

GRADES AND COURSE CREDIT
Policies and guidance on grades, including incomplete grades, are presented in the M.S.W. Student Manual, which all students receive at orientation. Please check our website for further information, socialwork.nyu.edu. As a general rule, students must successfully complete all Generalist Practice course before they can enroll in Specialized Practice courses. Students cannot be certified for graduation until all degree requirements are satisfactorily completed.

POLICY ON ACADEMIC PROBATION
Students will be placed on academic probation if their academic performance reflects any of the following:
- Less than a 3.0 GPA
- A grade of F
- An incomplete (I) grade that lasts for more than one semester

Students whose academic performance does not improve sufficiently to meet the minimum criteria for remaining in good standing after one semester will be dismissed from the MSW program. These criteria are: a GPA of at least 3.0, no incomplete grades, no F grades and completion of all course credits for which students are registered, meaning no W grades or withdrawal from courses during the probationary semester.

GRADUATION APPLICATION
Students may officially graduate in September, January, or May. The Commencement ceremony for all schools is held in May. Students must apply for graduation via Albert and must be enrolled for either course work or maintenance of matriculation during the academic year of graduation. In order to graduate in a specific semester, students must apply for graduation within the application deadline period indicated on the calendar. (Students may view the graduation deadlines calendar and general information about graduation on the Office of the University Registrar’s web page at nyu.edu/registrar.)

It is recommended that students apply for graduation no later than the beginning of the semester in which they plan to complete all program requirements. If a student does not successfully complete all academic requirements by the end of the semester, he or she must reapply for graduation for the following cycle.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES
The Henry and Lucy Moses Center for Students with Disabilities was established to facilitate equal access to the programs and activities of New York University for students with disabilities. The center provides comprehensive services and programs for undergraduate and graduate students with visual, hearing, orthopedic, and chronic impairments as well as learning disabilities. Any student who plans to request a service or accommodation must register with the center at the beginning of the term for which service or accommodation is requested. For further information, see the web page for the Moses Center for Students with Disabilities at www.nyu.edu/csd.

GRADUATE PROGRAM COMMITTEE
NYU’s Graduate Program Committee reviews and recommends to the Provost the approval of proposals from colleges, schools, and portal campuses with respect to new graduate programs granting master’s and doctoral degrees. The Committee may also formulate recommendations to the Provost on other matters that relate to graduate education in the University. More information on the Graduate Program Committee is available at gsas.nyu.edu/about-gsas/standing-committees/nyu-graduate-program-committee.
Field Instruction in Social Service Agencies

Over 600 social service and health agencies, schools, and other organizations in the five boroughs of New York City, as well as in New Jersey, Connecticut, Long Island, and other New York counties, are affiliated with the School as field learning sites. They represent a wide range of services in many fields of practice.

You can review a sample of agencies below that have served as field instruction sites; however, keep in mind that while some agency affiliations remain consistent, other settings vary from year to year (i.e., if situations at agencies change, the number and type of placements available to NYU students may be affected).

The Silver School of Social Work offers an undergraduate program (HEGIS code number 2104) leading to the Bachelor of Science degree that provides students with a combination of liberal arts and social work education. To be a social worker requires empathy and self-awareness, an understanding of the social problems that affect people and communities, and a commitment to the ethics of a challenging and satisfying profession. At the Silver School of Social Work, you can translate your social concerns into a professional career of helping those in need: a community in crisis, a child in foster care, a teenage mother, an isolated elderly person struggling with mental illness, a developmentally challenged adolescent, or an agency looking to increase funding to its clients. You will gain an in-depth understanding of many of the complex social problems of our time—unemployment, poverty, inadequate health resources and child welfare services, adolescent violence, alcohol and drug abuse—problems that exist in every stratum of society. You will also learn what can be done to alleviate some of these problems. The School will help you acquire the professional training you need to become a qualified and effective social work practitioner. A Bachelor of Science program with a concentration in social work equips you with a combination of theory, skills, and experiences that can prepare you for opportunities at federal, state, city, or private organizations, or for the international arena.

The undergraduate program at the Silver School of Social Work is broad enough to permit many choices. You can enter the field immediately after graduation, pursue graduate studies, or combine the two. As your professional career develops, you may choose to work directly with individuals and families in public and not-for-profit agencies, or you may choose a career in community organizing, law, occupational therapy, teaching, human resources, administration, or social planning. You may choose to use your talents, skills, and interests working with spouses of terminally ill patients, educating the community about health issues, counseling families and children, or improving social conditions. Whatever your ultimate goal, the School will prepare you with a solid professional foundation.

The School's program is fully accredited by the Council on Social Work Education. Through a program of 700 hours of on-site field learning in agencies throughout the New York metropolitan area, undergraduates have the kind of social work experience usually found only at the graduate level.

Because of the extensive professional training you receive as an undergraduate, if you wish, you may be able to earn a master's degree with only one additional year of study. If, on the other hand, you want to go to work immediately upon graduation, you will be well prepared to enter your profession.

Degree Requirements and Courses

All candidates are required to complete 128 credits in three areas as described below.

LIBERAL ARTS
The liberal arts foundation of this program broadens the perspective of the student and is fundamental to the basic understanding of social work. These courses, offered at the College of Arts and Science, satisfy the University's liberal arts requirements for the Bachelor of Science degree. They are completed prior to the social work major.

The 64 credits of liberal arts will be taken from the fields of humanities, social sciences, and human biology. Students must complete the following requirements satisfactorily.

Robert L. Hawkins, Ph.D., Assistant Dean and Director, B.S. Program

---
Liberal Arts Core Credits
(20 credits)
- Writing workshops: 8
- Introduction to Psychology: 4
- Introduction to Sociology: 4
- Human Biology: 4

Liberal Arts Course Distribution (44 credits)
- Humanities: 12
- Social Sciences: 16
- Unrestricted Electives: 16

A student's selection of specific courses is made with the approval of a Silver School of Social Work adviser.

Pre-Social Work Major (8 Credits)
This introductory core of two courses is planned for the freshman and sophomore years. The core is taught by Silver School of Social Work faculty. These courses are designed to help beginning students test their capacity and motivation for careers in social work.

Introduction to Social Work and Social Welfare

UNDSW-US.0001 4 credits.

This course provides an overview of the social work profession. It orients the student to the value system and goals of social work and examines the various professional modalities of work with individuals, families, groups, and communities.

Different agencies and fields of practice are presented with a focus on the role of the generalist social worker and the social-service delivery system. Through guest speakers and special assignments, students have the opportunity to test their interest in, and suitability for, the field of social work.

Professional and Interpersonal Communication Skills

UNDSW-US.0093 4 credits.

This course focuses on developing the ability to communicate effectively in professional environments and interpersonal situations. The course provides an in-depth exploration and development of communication skills used every day in workplace meetings, group settings, one-on-one encounters, and personal and professional relationships.

Social Work Major (57 Credits)
Courses in the social work major core are designed to: (1) cover the content areas relevant to social work values, knowledge, and practice and (2) merge classroom and field practice so that content and experience are joined into a single body of knowledge and skills.

The content areas covered by these courses are:
- Human behavior in the social environment
- Research methodology
- Social welfare programs and policies
- Social work practice
- Fieldwork

Courses in social work practice are closely integrated with supervised social-agency experience so that the student has the opportunity to apply in practice the knowledge and skills learned in the classroom. Field placements are designed around two objectives:
- Placement of students in substantive areas of interest (e.g., child welfare, intimate partner violence, medical social work, foster care, corrections, aging, etc.); and
- Placement of students in agency settings having familiarity with and interest in the baccalaureate social worker.

RESIDENCE REQUIREMENT
Students enrolled for degree programs at New York University are expected to take their courses, including summer school, at New York University. Exceptions are considered by the program director on a case-by-case basis and must be approved in advance.

MINORS AND INDIVIDUAL COURSES
Students in the College of Arts and Science may enroll in the minor in social work given jointly by the Silver School of Social Work and the College of Arts and Science. The minor consists of four courses, including Introduction to Social Work, Skills in Interpersonal Communication, and two social work electives.

Students with a social work minor may not enroll in Social Work Practice I and II or in Field Instruction I and II.

The Silver School offers a multi-disciplinary minor in poverty studies with the College of Arts and Science (CAS); Tisch School of the Arts (TSOA); and the Steinhardt School of Culture, Education, and Human Development (Steinhardt). Students enrolled in other schools in the University are invited to register for courses given in the Silver School of Social Work for which they have the appropriate educational background. Students may apply for the minor online. The 18-credit minor consists of four courses, to be selected in consultation with the program director, and a required two-credit service-learning course. Specific course sequencing is not compulsory, but existing prerequisite restrictions for electives will apply.

Students can also minor in multifaith and spiritual leadership, a first-of-its-kind joint program offered by the Silver School of Social Work and the Robert F. Wagner Graduate School of Public Service. The 16-credit multifaith and spiritual leadership minor consists of two required core four-credit courses; one four-credit required optional course selected from two options; and four additional elective credits for a total of 16 credits. The minor consists of academically rigorous, civically engaged classes that provide students of all faith backgrounds (including those who are unaffiliated with a particular faith tradition) the opportunity to engage purposefully in holistic multifaith dialogue, service, and academic work. The minor is not only for the religious but is also for students who are interested in faith and multifaith dialogue as important social phenomena, regardless of their own faith stance. All courses will be selected in consultation with the program director.
MINOR AND DUAL MAJOR

Students majoring in social work and enrolled in the undergraduate social work program may minor in a subject offered by another department at New York University. All social work requirements for a major and all requirements for the minor must be met, no course credits may be applied twice to both the major and the minor, and the appropriate departmental permissions are to be obtained.

Students majoring in social work and enrolled in the undergraduate social work program may have a second major offered by another department at New York University. All requirements for both majors must be met, no course credits may be applied twice to the two majors, and the appropriate departmental permissions are to be obtained.

The Silver School offers a dual major in public health/social work with the NYU College of Global Public Health. Students will study a variety of topics and will also work closely with an adviser to select the right mix of electives to complement individual interests and career paths. Students who complete the global public health/social work degree will complete all the same social work courses and internship hours as in the Council on Social Work Education-approved major at NYU and will therefore meet all requirements for the B.S. in social work as approved by CSWE.

FINANCIAL AID DEADLINES AND APPLICATION

The applications described below are the forms that must be submitted for any and all types of financial aid awarded at NYU, including all need-based and merit-based scholarships. It is recommended that students apply electronically for financial aid after viewing the appropriate website information at www.nyu.edu/financial-aid. For applicants to NYU Abu Dhabi, please visit NYU Abu Dhabi Financial Support at www.nyuad.nyu.edu/admissions/financial-support.

Students who are U.S. citizens or eligible non-citizens and who wish to be considered for financial aid when applying for admission to NYU should complete: (1) the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) for all undergraduate and all graduate students; (2) the CSS/Financial Aid PROFILE (for new undergraduate applicants only) and Non-Custodial Profile, if applicable; and (3) for New York State residents only, the Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) grant application. Admission to NYU New York is need-blind for domestic applicants, and financial support will be tailored for each individual family based upon the results of the FAFSA, PROFILE, and TAP applications.

Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)
The Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) is a confidential financial statement detailing information about your family’s financial circumstances. Once the form is completed, the student must submit it directly to the U.S. Department of Education. Using a formula mandated by Congress, the U.S. Department of Education makes an evaluation of a family’s financial strength and estimates the amount a family can contribute annually toward educational expenses. The Department of Education then sends the family’s financial information and its estimate of family contribution to each college the student designates to receive the information. The FAFSA is available each year beginning January 1, and should be completed as soon as possible, but not later than February 15 (12:00 midnight EST) for new freshmen, and no later than April 1 (12:00 midnight EDT) for most other students. Graduate students should refer to their school or department for specific program deadlines.

There is no fee charged to file the FAFSA. Students must include the NYU federal school code number 002785 in the school section of the FAFSA to ensure that the processor transmits the information submitted to New York University.

College Scholarship Service
Financial Aid PROFILE

The CSS/Financial Aid PROFILE application is administered by the College Scholarship Service (the financial aid division of The College Board) and collects information used by many private universities to award institutional (non-government) financial aid funds.

The CSS/Financial Aid PROFILE can be submitted in the fall as early as October 1, but not later than February 15. It can be found online at the College Board’s website: www.profile-online.collegeboard.com/prf/index.jsp. Students should not wait until their taxes are done before submitting the PROFILE. Although it is better to do your taxes early, it is acceptable to use an income estimate, so long as it does not vary significantly from the actual value. NYU does not partici-

EARLY DECISION ADMISSION

NYU offers two Early Decision application options for freshman applicants who are certain that NYU is their first-choice university. Students applying as Early Decision candidates will receive their admission decision after December 15 (Early Decision I) or after February 15 (Early Decision II).

An Outline of NYU's Early Decision Philosophy and Process

NYU's Early Decision programs are binding agreements, whereby if an applicant is offered admission and provided with a financial aid package that enables the student to enroll, the student must withdraw any previously submitted applications and accept NYU's admission offer—within roughly two to three weeks of being accepted. Students are then restricted from filing any new applications. If a student has completed the Early Decision Financial Aid application online, the student will be provided with a financial aid estimate soon after the student is offered admission. Again, admitted students will have roughly two to three weeks to review their financial aid package before confirming their enrollment at NYU.

For Early Decision I candidates, NYU uses information that students share via the CSS PROFILE online to provide admitted students with an estimated financial aid package after December 15. For Early Decision II candidates, NYU uses this information to provide admitted students with an estimated financial aid package after February 15. Students are then provided with their official financial aid award in late April, assuming students have completed their Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) by February 15.

Students will only be released from the Early Decision agreement if their estimated financial aid package does not enable them to attend. Students must be aware that applying Early Decision will not enable them to compare financial aid packages from other universities. If comparing financial aid packages will be necessary for a student, the student should apply under the Regular Decision program. NYU reserves the majority of admission offers for students applying for Regular Decision, so students should not feel pressure to apply for Early Decision if finances are of concern.

Advantages and Disadvantages of Applying for Early Decision

As most students know, the biggest advantage to applying for Early Decision is that if offered admission, the college search process can be completed early and thus reduce a tremendous amount of anxiety over the college admission process. Many students want to know if it is “easier” to be admitted through NYU's Early Decision process. It is not “easier” to be admitted through Early Decision, as the quantifiable criteria we use to evaluate candidates for admission—GPA and class rank (if available), test scores, etc.—is the same during both the Early and Regular Decision processes. Students who are offered admission during the Early Decision round will have remarkably similar credentials as those offered admission during the Regular Decision round and vice versa.
Early Decision Application Process

All applicants must:
- complete the Common Application and NYU Writing Supplement online and check either the Early Decision I or II option;
- download and sign the Early Decision Agreement from the Common Application website (www.commonapp.org). Applicants must secure the signature of a parent or guardian and a college adviser/guidance counselor. If applying online, the Early Decision Agreement may be submitted along with a high school transcript. If applying using the paper version of the Common Application, the Early Decision Agreement should be submitted with your application;
- submit all supporting materials such as transcripts and standardized test scores to the Office of Undergraduate Admissions by the appropriate deadline; and
- complete the CSS PROFILE.

TRANSFER APPLICANTS

A student may be admitted by transfer from another college or university for the fall or spring semester (see The Admission Process, page 38). Credit will be granted for most college-level work completed with a grade of C or better within the past 10 years that satisfies degree requirements and that falls within the residency requirement, with the exception of certain courses of a vocational nature or courses not consistent with the educational objectives of the School. Within these provisions, applicants from regionally accredited colleges are eligible for admission. Except when specifically noted, the general procedures described for entering freshmen apply to all applicants seeking to transfer from other two-year or four-year regionally accredited institutions. Transfer applicants must submit official credentials from all institutions attended, including secondary-school transcripts. Transfer applicants who will have completed at least one full year of full-time college or university enrollment in liberal arts and science courses are exempt from having to submit standardized test results, though international applicants must review the English language testing requirements, available at admissions.nyu.edu. Transfer applicants who have completed less than one year of college (or have fewer than 30 credits of college work) must complete the standardized testing requirements outlined for freshman applicants.

To be eligible for a degree, a transfer student must complete at least 48 credits with an average of 2.0 or higher in courses during two or more regular terms. For full details, see Degree Requirements and Courses, pages 35-37.

TRANSFER APPLICANTS WITHIN THE UNIVERSITY

Students who wish to transfer from one school to another within the University should refer to the Admissions website (admissions.nyu.edu) for application information.

READMISSION OF FORMER STUDENTS

Any former student who has been out of attendance for more than two consecutive terms and who wishes to return to the Silver School of Social Work must apply for readmission. Please refer to the Admissions website (admissions.nyu.edu) for application information.

INTERNATIONAL APPLICANTS

Applicants who are neither U.S. citizens nor permanent residents should see pages 63-64.

ADVANCED STANDING

Credit may be awarded for satisfactory work completed at another accredited college or university. When a transfer applicant is admitted to the Silver School of Social Work, the applicant’s records are examined carefully to determine how much, if any, advanced standing will be granted. Each individual course completed elsewhere is evaluated. Grades of C or better or grades above the lowest passing mark (no credit is awarded for grades of C-) must have been earned in transfer courses in order to be applied toward degree requirements. Transfer students must fulfill residency requirements for the degree. See Degree Requirements and Courses, pages 35-37.

A tentative statement of advanced standing is provided to each student upon notification of admission to the School. A final statement of advanced standing is provided during the student’s first semester of matriculation.

Course work taken 10 years or more prior to matriculation may not be transferable and will be reviewed by the Silver School of Social Work.

CREDIT BY EXAMINATION

The Advanced Placement Program (AP) (College Entrance Examination Board), the International Baccalaureate (IB) Program, and the results of some foreign maturity certificate examinations enable undergraduate students to receive credit toward the bachelor’s degree on the basis of performance in college-level examinations or proficiency examinations related to the School’s degree requirements, subject to the approval of the School.

The maximum number of credits allowed toward the degree requirements of the Silver School of Social Work that are a result of any possible combination of nonresident special examination programs shall not exceed 32.

Advanced Placement (AP) Program

New York University participates in the Advanced Placement Program of the College Entrance Examination Board. In accordance with New York University policy, if test results are 5 or 4, depending on the subject examination, the student may receive college credit toward the degree and may not have to take the corresponding college-level course for credit.

For additional information, students should consult the Office of Undergraduate Admissions at admissions.nyu.edu or call 212-998-4500.

International Baccalaureate (IB)

For advanced-standing credit, the School recognizes higher-level examinations passed with grades of 6 or 7. No credit is granted for standard-level examinations. Official reports must be submitted to the Undergraduate Admissions Processing Center for review.
Country-Specific Examinations
The School will consider the results of certain examinations for advanced standing credit, e.g., British “A” levels, French Baccalauréat, German Abitur, Italian Maturità, or the Federal Swiss Maturity Certificate. Official reports must be submitted to the Undergraduate Admissions Processing Center. For information regarding the possibility of advanced-standing credit for other examinations, please contact the Office of Undergraduate Admissions.

Tuition, Expenses, and Financial Aid

When estimating the cost of a university education, students should consider two factors: (1) the total cost of tuition, fees, and materials related to a particular program plus costs directly related to the choice of living style (residence hall, apartment, commuting costs); and (2) financial aid that may be available from a variety of sources.

This section provides information on these two distinct but related topics.

TUITION, FEES, AND EXPENSES
The following is the schedule of fees established by the Board of Trustees of New York University for the year 2017-2018. The Board of Trustees reserves the right to alter this schedule without notice.

Note that the registration and services fee covers memberships, dues, etc., to the student’s class organization and entitles the student to membership in such University activities as are supported by this allocation and to receive regularly those University and college publications that are supported in whole or in part by the student activities fund. It also includes the University’s health services, emergency and accident coverage, and technology fee.

All fees are payable at the time of registration. The Office of the Bursar is located at 25 West Fourth Street. Checks and drafts are to be drawn to the order of New York University for the exact amount of the tuition and fees required. In the case of overpayment, the balance is refunded on request by filing a refund application in the Office of the Bursar.

A fee will be charged if payment is not made by the due date indicated on the student’s statement.

The unpaid balance of a student’s account is also subject to an interest charge of 12 percent per annum from the first day of class until payment is received.

Holders of New York State Tuition Assistance Program Awards will be allowed credit toward their tuition fees in the amount of their entitlement, provided they are New York State residents, are enrolled on a full-time basis, and present with their schedule/bill the Award Certificate for the applicable term.

Students who receive awards after registration will receive a check from the University after the New York State payment has been received by the Office of the Bursar and the Office of the University Registrar has confirmed eligibility.

Deferred Payment Plan

The Deferred Payment Plan allows you to pay 50 percent of your net balance due for the current term on the payment due date and defer the remaining 50 percent until later in the semester. This plan is available to students who meet the following eligibility requirements:

• matriculated and registered for six or more credits;
• no previously unsatisfactory University credit record; and
• not in arrears (past due) for any University charge or loan.

The plan includes a nonrefundable application fee of $50.00, which is to be included with the initial payment on the payment due date. Interest at a rate of 1 percent per month on the unpaid balance will be assessed if payment is not made in full by the final installment due date. A late-payment fee will be assessed on any late payments.

A separate Deferred Payment Plan application and agreement is required for each semester this plan is used. The Deferred Payment Plan will be available at www.nyu.edu/bursar/forms in July for the fall semester and in December for the spring semester.

For additional information, visit the Office of the Bursar website at nyu.edu/bursar/paymentplans or call 212-998-2806.

TuitionPay Plan

TuitionPay is a payment plan administered by Sallie Mae. The plan is open to all NYU students with the exception of the SCPS noncredit division. This interest-free plan allows for all or a portion of a student’s educational expenses (including tuition, fees, room, and board) to be paid in monthly installments.

The traditional University billing cycle consists of one large lump sum payment due at the beginning of each semester. TuitionPay is a budget plan that enables a family to spread payments over the course of the academic year. By enrolling in this plan, you spread your fall semester tuition payments over a four-month period (June through September) and your spring semester tuition payment over another four-month period (November through February).

With this plan, you budget the cost of your tuition and/or housing after deducting any financial aid you will be receiving and/or any payments you have made directly to NYU.

A nonrefundable enrollment fee of $50.00 is required when applying for the fall/spring TuitionPay Plan. You must enroll in both the fall and spring plans. Monthly statements will be mailed by TuitionPay, and all payments should be made directly to them. For additional information, contact TuitionPay at 1-800-635-0120 or visit the NYU Bursar website at www.nyu.edu/bursar.

Tuition Insurance

NYU encourages all students to purchase tuition insurance in case a withdrawal after the refund period becomes necessary. For more information, please contact A.W.G. Dewar, Inc., Four Batterymarch Park, Quincy, MA 02169; 617-774-1555; www.tuition-refundplan.com.

For Arrears Policy, Diploma Arrears Policy, Withdrawal and Refund of Tuition, and the Refund Period Schedule, see General Information for All Programs, pages 62-66.

FINANCIAL AID

New York University awards financial aid in an effort to help students meet the difference between their own resources and the cost of education. All awards are subject to availability of funds and the student’s demonstrated need. Renewal of assistance depends on annual reevaluation of a student’s need, the availability of funds, the successful completion of the previous year, and satisfactory progress toward completion of degree requirements. In addition, students must meet the published filing deadlines. Detailed information about financial aid is also available on the Office of Financial Aid website at www.nyu.edu/financial.aid. A concise summary is also included in the NYU Student’s Guide, available from the Student Resource Center at www.nyu.edu/student-afairs/student.guide.

Many awards are granted purely on the basis of merit, while others are based on financial need. It is frequently possible to receive a combination of awards based on both. University scholarships or fellowships may be granted by themselves or in conjunction with student loans or Federal Work-Study employment. To ensure that maximum sources of available support will be investigated, students must apply for financial aid by the appropriate deadline.

It is the student’s responsibility to supply true, accurate, and complete information to the Office of Financial Aid and to notify the office immediately of any changes or corrections in his or her financial situation, enrollment status, or housing status, including tuition-remission benefits; outside scholarships and grants; and state-supported, prepaid college savings plans.

A student who has received a financial aid award must inform the Silver School of Social Work and the Office of Financial Aid if he or she subsequently decides to decline all or part of that award. To neglect to do so prevents use of the award by another student. If a student has not claimed his or her award (has not enrolled) by the close of regular (not late) registration and has not obtained written permission from his or her school and the Office of Financial Aid for an extension, the award may be canceled, and the student may become ineligible to receive scholarship or fellowship aid in future years.

Determination of financial need is also based on the number of courses for which the student indicates he or she intends to register. A change in registration therefore may necessitate an adjustment in financial aid.

How to Apply
Students must submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) and the CSS PROFILE. New York State residents must also complete the New York State Tuition Assistance Program (TAP) application. (The TAP application is also available on the Internet when using FAFSA on the Web.) The FAFSA (available online at www.fafsa.ed.gov) is the basic form for all student aid programs. Be sure to complete all sections. Students should give permission on the FAFSA for application data to be sent directly to New York University (the NYU federal code number is 002785). Entering freshmen should submit the application by February 15 for the fall term or by November 1 for the spring term. Returning undergraduates and transfer students should apply no later than March 1.

Students requiring summer financial aid must submit an undergraduate summer aid application in addition to the FAFSA and the TAP application. The application, available in February, can be obtained from the Financial Aid website or the Office of Financial Aid. For more information, visit: www.nyu.edu/admissions/financial-aid-and-scholarships/applications-and-forms.html.

Eligibility

Enrollment
To be considered for financial aid, students must be officially admitted to NYU or matriculated in a degree program and making satisfactory academic progress toward degree requirements. Students in certain certificate or diploma programs may also be eligible for consideration. Generally, University-administered aid is awarded to full-time students. Half-time students (fewer than 12 but at least six credits per semester) may be eligible for a Federal Stafford Loan or a Federal PLUS Loan, but they must also maintain satisfactory academic progress. Part-time undergraduate students may also be eligible for Aid for Part-Time Study (APTS) (New York State residents only—separate application is necessary) or for Pell Grants.

Renewal Eligibility
Financial aid awards are not automatically renewed each year. Continuing students must submit a FAFSA each year by the NYU deadline, continue to demonstrate financial need, make satisfactory progress toward degree requirements, and be in good academic standing.

Citizenship
In order to be eligible for aid from NYU and from federal and state government sources, students must be classified either as U.S. citizens or as eligible noncitizens. Students are considered to be eligible noncitizens for financial aid purposes if the following condition applies:

- U.S. permanent resident with an Alien Registration Receipt Card I-551 ("green card").

Other eligible noncitizens with an Arrival-Departure Record (I-94) showing any one of the following designations:
- "Refugee,"
- "Indefinite Parole,"
- "Humanitarian Parole,"
- "Asylum Granted," or
- "Cuban-Haitian Entrant."

NYU offers limited financial support in the form of institutional grants/scholarships to international freshmen admitted to the New York NYU campus. Grants/scholarships are based upon a combination of financial need and academic merit. Students who are not U.S. citizens or eligible non-citizens and who wish to be considered for financial aid when applying for admission to the NYU New York campus should complete ONLY the CSS/Financial Aid PROFILE. International students cannot apply for financial support after they are admitted. Admission to NYU New York is need-aware for international applicants; New York University will consider a family’s financial need as reported on the PROFILE when evaluating the student’s application for admission.

Withdrawal
Students should follow the official academic withdrawal policy described in this bulletin. Those receiving federal aid who withdraw completely may be billed for remaining balances resulting from the mandatory return of funds to the U.S. government. The amount of federal aid “earned” up to that point is determined by the withdrawal date and a calculation based on the federally prescribed formula. Generally, federal assistance is earned on a pro-rata basis.

University-Sponsored and Administered Programs
Through the generosity of its alumni and other concerned citizens, as well as from funds supplied by the federal government, the University is able to provide an extensive financial aid program for its students.

Awards are competitive and based on academic achievement, test scores, and, in most cases, financial need.

Scholarships and Grants
Scholarships and grants awarded by the University generally range from $500 to $25,000. In addition, the University has established separate scholarship funds for students in special situations of merit or need. There is no separate application for NYU scholarships. All students are automatically considered for academic (merit-based) and financial need-based scholarships after applying for admission and financial aid. The FAFSA and the admissions application contain all the information needed for scholarship determination.

New York University Merit Scholarships
The University sponsors scholarships for finalists in the annual National Merit Scholarship Program. New York University must be listed as the first choice of schools in order to qualify for New York University Merit Scholarships.
BACHELOR OF SCIENCE PROGRAM

University Scholars
A select number of new freshmen are designated as University Scholars based on their high school records of achievement and service. In addition to the special academic privileges accorded to the scholars, they receive a merit scholarship and additional financial aid, based on need, up to the amount of tuition.

The Reynolds Program in Social Entrepreneurship
This program offers 20 graduate fellowships and 10 undergraduate scholarships each year. The program is a comprehensive initiative designed to equip the next generation of social entrepreneurial leaders and infrastructure developers and managers with the skills, resources, and networking opportunities needed to help solve society’s most intractable problems in sustainable and scalable ways. The graduate fellowship provides up to $50,000 over two years and dedicated curricular and cocurricular activities. The undergraduate scholarship provides up to $40,000 over two years and dedicated curricular and cocurricular activities. Students must submit an application for consideration. For more details, you may visit www.nyu.edu/reynolds.

Loan Programs
Federal Perkins Loan Program
New York University administers the Federal Perkins Loan Program, supported by the federal government. The University determines eligibility for a Perkins Loan based on a student’s financial need and availability of funds; students are considered for this loan when they apply for financial aid. New York University generally awards Perkins Loans to the neediest full-time students only. Perkins Loans are made possible through a combination of resources: an annual allocation from the U.S. Department of Education, a contribution from New York University, and repayments by previous borrowers. The annual interest rate is currently 5 percent, and interest does not accrue while the student remains enrolled at least half time.

Part-Time Employment
Wasserman Center for Career Development
Most financial aid award packages include work-study. This means that students are eligible to participate in the Federal Work-Study Program and may earn up to the amount recommended in their award package. Work-study wages are paid directly to the student on a biweekly basis and are normally used for books, transportation, and personal expenses. On-campus jobs are advertised through the website of the Wasserman Center for Career Development (www.nyu.edu/careerdevelopment).

It is not necessary to be awarded work-study earnings in order to use the services of the Wasserman Center. All students may use the center as soon as they have paid their tuition deposit and may also wish to use the center as a resource for summer employment. The Wasserman Center for Career Development is located at 133 East 13th Street, 2nd Floor; 212-998-4730.

Resident Assistantships
Resident assistants live in the residence halls and are responsible for organizing, implementing, and evaluating social and educational activities. Compensation may include room and/or board and/or a stipend. Applications and further information may be obtained from the Office of Residential Life and Housing Services, located at 726 Broadway, 7th Floor; 212-998-4600; www.nyu.edu/life/living-at-nyu/on-campus-living/staff.

All Other Sources of Aid
State Grants
New York State offers a wide variety of grants and scholarships to residents. Although application is made directly to the state and grants are awarded by the state, the amount each student is expected to receive is estimated and taken into account by the University when assembling the student’s financial aid package.

New York State Tuition Assistance Program (TAP)
Legal residents of the state of New York who are enrolled in a full-time degree program of at least 12 credits a term, or the equivalent, may be eligible for awards under this program. The award varies, depending on income and tuition cost.

Students applying for TAP must do so via a FAFSA application (see the How to Apply section, page 44). Submit the completed application as instructed. For more information about TAP, visit www.nyu.edu/financialaid/tap.html.

Aid for Part-Time Study (APTS)
A financial aid program to help New York State residents pursuing part-time undergraduate-degree study offers awards in amounts of up to $2,000 per academic year. The amount of an award is determined by the institution. To be eligible, the student must have filed a FAFSA and demonstrated financial need, must not have exhausted his or her TAP eligibility, must be otherwise eligible for financial aid, and must be enrolled for 3 to 11 credit points per term. Applications are available from the Office of Financial Aid or its website. The application deadline varies; please consult the Office of Financial Aid.

Federal Grants and Benefits

Pell Grant Program. The Federal Pell Grant Program provides assistance to undergraduate students who demonstrate financial need according to economic criteria and program requirements established by the federal government. To be eligible, you must enroll in a degree or approved certificate/diploma program and be matriculated for your first bachelor’s degree. (You are not eligible if you have already completed a bachelor’s degree.) By submitting the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), you also apply for a Federal Pell Grant.

Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (SEOG)

These federally funded grants are awarded to undergraduates whose financial need is substantial. All FAFSA filers who qualify are automatically considered for this grant. However, funds for this program are very limited.

Federal Academic Competitiveness Grant (ACG)

The Academic Competitiveness Grant (ACG) provides federal assistance to students who are also eligible for a Federal Pell Grant and have financial need. Students must also be U.S. citizens, be enrolled full time, and be in a two- or four-year undergraduate degree program. They must not have previously enrolled in an undergraduate program and must have been in a rigorous high school program or met the standard of rigor via other means as defined by the Department of Education. The amount of the award varies, depending on whether the student is in his or her first or second year. For students receiving the ACG in their first year, they must have graduated from high school after January 1, 2006. For students receiving ACG in their second year, they must have graduated from high school after January 1, 2005. Returning students must have a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or above. Students will automatically be reviewed for ACG eligibility each semester.

Veterans Benefits

Various programs provide educational benefits for spouses, sons, and daughters of deceased or permanently disabled veterans, as well as for veterans and in-service personnel who served on active duty in the United States Armed Forces after January 1, 1955. In these programs the amount of benefits varies. Applications and further information may be obtained from the student’s regional office of the Department of Veterans Affairs. Additional guidance may be obtained from the Office of the University Registrar, 25 West Fourth Street, 1st Floor.

Outside Scholarships and Grants

Students may be eligible for a private scholarship or grant from an outside agency. Some sources to explore are employers, unions, professional organizations, and community and special-interest groups. A number of extensive scholarship search resources are available free on the Internet, and several are featured on the NYU Undergraduate Admissions website at admissions.nyu.edu/financialaid/scholarships. Students must notify the Office of Financial Aid if they receive funds from any of these sources.

Federal Loans

Federal Direct Loan Program

The Federal Direct Loan is obtained from the U.S. Department of Education. The total amount borrowed in any year may not exceed the cost of education minus the total family contribution and all other financial aid received that year. The interest rate is fixed at 6.84 percent. An origination fee of 4.27 percent will be deducted from the loan funds. PLUS loan disbursements are made copayable to NYU and the student, and funds are applied first to the current year’s outstanding balance on the student’s account.

Federal Direct PLUS Loan Program

The PLUS loan enables parents of dependent undergraduate students and qualifying graduate students to borrow up to the full amount of an NYU education minus other aid. The interest rate is fixed at 6.84 percent. An origination fee of 4.27 percent will be deducted from the loan funds. PLUS loan disbursements are made copayable to NYU and the student, and funds are applied first to the current year’s outstanding balance on the student’s account.
Private Loans
A private (nonfederal) loan may be a financing option for students who are not eligible for federal aid or who need additional funding beyond the maximum amounts offered by federal loans. For more information on the terms and conditions of the suggested private loans (as well as applications), visit www.nyu.edu/financial.aid/private.

Employee Education Plans
Many companies pay all or part of the tuition of their employees under tuition-refund plans. Employed students attending the University should ask their personnel officers or training directors about the existence of a company tuition plan. Students who receive tuition reimbursement and NYU employees who receive tuition remission from NYU must notify the Office of Financial Aid if they receive this benefit.

Note: Registration in other than registered or approved programs may jeopardize eligibility for certain student aid.

Academic Policies

GRADES
The scale of grades is as follows:
A = 4 points. B = 3 points. C = 2 points. D = 1 point. F = 0 points. P = pass, not counted in average. N = not counted. IP = incomplete but passing—term paper or other work or final examination lacking (grade given only with the permission of the instructor); may be made up within time limits. If not made up, grade lapses to N. IF = incomplete and not passing; may be made up within time limits. If not made up, grade lapses to F. W = official withdrawal. R = registered paid auditor, not graded.

A grade of I must be removed within the time set by the instructor or it becomes an F.

The lowest passing undergraduate grade is D. If at the end of any term a student’s cumulative average is below 2.0, the student will be placed on probation and his or her status reported to the faculty adviser. No student will be entitled to more than three probationary terms and not more than two of these consecutively. A general average of 2.0 is required for graduation with the bachelor’s degree.

WITHDRAWAL FROM COURSES

After the drop period specified on the Academic Calendar has ended (typically after the second week of classes), you can request to withdraw (with a W) from eligible class(es) using the Class Withdrawal process in Albert. Detailed information on requesting class withdrawal is available at www.nyu.edu/students/student-information-and-resources/registration-records-and-graduation/registration/registering-on-albert/request_class_withdrawal.

CHANGE OF PROGRAM

Students are permitted to change programs during the first three weeks of regular classes. Beyond the end of the third week of classes, a student may not add a course.

GRADUATION APPLICATION

Students may officially graduate in September, January, or May. The Commencement ceremony for all schools is held in May. Students must apply for graduation via Albert and must be enrolled for either course work or maintenance of matriculation during the academic year of graduation. In order to graduate in a specific semester, students must apply for graduation within the application deadline period indicated on the calendar. (Students may view the graduation deadlines calendar and general information about graduation on the Office of the University Registrar’s web page at www.nyu.edu/registrar.) It is recommended that students apply for graduation no later than the beginning of the semester in which they plan to complete all program requirements. If a student does not successfully complete all academic requirements by the end of the semester, he or she must reapply for graduation for the following cycle.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

The Henry and Lucy Moses Center for Students with Disabilities was established to facilitate equal access to the programs and activities of New York University for students with disabilities. The center provides comprehensive services and programs for undergraduate and graduate students with visual, hearing, orthopedic, and chronic impairments as well as learning disabilities. Any student who plans to request a service or accommodation must register with the center at the beginning of the term for which service or accommodation is requested. For further information, see the web page for the Moses Center for Students with Disabilities at www.nyu.edu/csd.

Academic Policies
The Ph.D. program (HEGIS code number 2104) is committed to preparing stewards of the discipline for leadership positions at national and global levels. The program’s curriculum is designed to provide students with rigorous methodological, conceptual, and statistical training in both quantitative and qualitative research. Our specific aim is to competitively position graduates for top-tier academic and research opportunities, such as faculty positions at leading research universities, and to cultivate the next wave of independent investigators, scholars, and social work leaders. In addition to our advanced coursework, NYU Silver doctoral students are paired from day one with a research mentor as part of our personalized mentoring program, helping students develop core competencies in research, scholarship, and teaching. Our faculty is especially renowned for expertise in several key areas, including poverty studies, mental health services research, and children and family research. We offer an unparalleled research environment and platform for study. Students in the Ph.D. program learn from faculty who are leading scholars, expert researchers, experienced clinicians, and dedicated teachers. Our students are also able to draw on the incomparable resources of New York, one of the world’s greatest and most diverse cities. Additionally, NYU is a leader in global education, offering students numerous domestic and international educational and research opportunities, including the dual Ph.D. degree program with East China Normal University School of Social Development in Shanghai, China. The Silver School has increasingly focused its Ph.D. program on the development of cutting-edge social work scholars and leaders capable of addressing contemporary social welfare issues both within the United States and across the globe.

Program Description

PROGRAM GOALS AND OBJECTIVES
The primary goal of the Ph.D. program is to develop scholars who, through the conduct of original research, will contribute to the knowledge base of professional social work practice and policy. Graduates will be able to conduct independent research, provide leadership in building social work knowledge, and compete successfully for academic positions in social work or related disciplines at research-intense institutions.

Students in the Ph.D. program acquire knowledge and skills and develop critical thinking in the following areas:
- statistical methods;
- quantitative and qualitative research methods;
- philosophy of science and knowledge development;
- social work as a unique discipline;
- social science theories used to analyze social problems;
- specialization in a focused area of substantive expertise;
- applied research training and grant development;
- academic and scholarly writing for publication; and
- career preparation for entry into the professoriate.

Upon completion of the program, graduates should be able to:
- provide leadership in the development of knowledge in a substantive area that is important to social work practice, policy, and/or social service delivery;
- conduct independent research that demonstrates advanced knowledge of the methodology used and which meets current publication standards;
- engage in critical analyses of social work practice models and their underpinning theories, including evidence of empirical support;
- draw upon established social work theories to generate hypotheses regarding problems relevant to social work practice and policy;
- critically examine social work policies using established models of analysis;
- communicate effectively at a professional level, orally and in writing, the product of one’s scholarship to diverse constituencies; and
- compete successfully for academic positions in social work or related disciplines.

Note that the Ph.D. program does not prepare students for advanced practice in clinical social work or for licensure for social work practice in New York State. Students who have been granted an L.M.S.W. or L.C.S.W. license by the New York State Education Department may practice according to the guidelines of their particular license. Students who do not have either license may not provide professional services in New York State unless otherwise authorized by state law. Under state law, it is also not possible for students in the Ph.D. program to engage in a clinical practicum designed to prepare them for licensure. Those interested in clinical social work may wish to pursue the Doctor of Social Welfare (See page 56).

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS
The requirements for the Ph.D. degree are the completion of a minimum of 48 credits in coursework beyond the master’s level, a passing grade on the qualifying exam, and the successful completion of the dissertation proposal and final defense of a doctoral dissertation. Candidates must produce an accepted dissertation proposal within three years of passing the qualifying exam. Upon having an accepted dissertation proposal, students enter into candidacy for the Ph.D. degree. Students must maintain continuous enrollment and a GPA of at least 3.0. Full-time students must successfully defend their dissertation within seven years of initial enrollment in the program.

CURRICULUM OVERVIEW AND COURSES
The Ph.D. curriculum consists of 16 courses (48 credits): eight common core courses, six electives, one course on career preparation, and one course on scholarly impact. Full-time students normally take between 9-12 credits in the fall and spring semesters over two to three years. Required courses for all social work doctoral students are:

- Philosophy of Science and Knowledge Development
  PHDSW-GS.3050 3 credits.

- History of Social Work and Social Policy Analysis
  PHDSW-GS.3048 3 credits.

- Macro Level Theories in the Social Sciences
  PHDSW-GS.3053 3 credits.

- Social and Behavioral Intervention Research
  PHDSW-GS.3064 3 credits.

- Introductory Quantitative Methods
  PHDSW-GS.3064 3 credits.

- Introductory Qualitative Methods
  PHDSW-GS.3032 3 credits.

- Statistics I
  PHDSW-GS.3028 3 credits.

- Statistics II
  PHDSW-GS.3067 3 credits.

- Advanced Methodological/Statistical Courses 3 credits.

- Substantive Area of Expertise Courses 3 credits.

- Teaching and Learning in Social Work
  PHDSW-GS.3033 3 credits.

- Dissertation Proseminar: Career Preparation
  PHDSW-GS.3013 3 credits.

Methodological Specialization
Students are required to take three courses in their chosen methodological specialization track. Such tracks could be: advanced qualitative and data analytic methods, advanced quantitative and statistical methods, a combination of both methods, and mixed-methods. Both qualitative and quantitative tracks contain a combination of required and elective courses. Students will identify advanced elective courses in their respective tracks at Silver and other NYU departments and enroll in three courses to complete their methodological specialization track.

Sample layout for advanced methodological courses:
- Advanced qualitative methods (Silver course)
- Structural Equation Modeling I (Silver course)
- Structural Equation Modeling II (Silver course)
- Electives at Silver or outside

Substantive Area of Expertise
Additionally, students will select one substantive area of expertise in which to specialize, in line with Silver’s strategic vision and the expertise and strengths of the school’s faculty. Students must take three courses in their chosen area of expertise. There are many areas in which students may choose to specialize; below we list a few among others:

- Mental health and clinical science
- Global social welfare and public health
- Children, youth, and family research
- Poverty and socioeconomic disadvantage

Students should select an area of expertise that is related to what will likely become their dissertation topic. Courses can be taken at Silver and other NYU departments.

A key aspect of the NYU Silver Ph.D. program curriculum is the mentored research practicum. All incoming doctoral students are paired with a faculty research mentor. The mentor pairing aims to foster the development of the student as an independent researcher and scholar through greater attention to the development of specific research competencies. Students will be integrated in their mentor’s current program of research for 20 hours per week and evaluated with a grade of Pass/Fail.

QUALIFYING EXAM
No later than three months following the completion of coursework, students must submit an integrative review paper of publishable quality which serves as the qualifying exam. The PhD program office will form a qualifying exam committee who will oversee the process and approval of the paper.

DISSERTATION
Upon passing the qualifying exam and completing all coursework, students are qualified to begin working on their dissertation. The dissertation process is divided into two phases: the proposal and the final dissertation. Students must form an approved dissertation committee who will oversee their dissertation, and to whom they will defend both their proposal and final dissertation. The dissertation proposal must be successfully defended before the committee and also approved by the University Committee on Activities Involving Human Subjects before data collection can begin. Once data collection and analysis is complete, students must write a final dissertation and defend it before their committee. Upon a successful dissertation defense, in addition to completing all other program requirements, candidates will be able to formally apply for graduation. The students are expected to graduate within 4-7 years of study.
GRADUATION APPLICATION
Students may officially graduate in September, January, or May. Dates of dissertation defense and final submission for each graduation point are given in the Ph.D. Student Manual. The Commencement ceremony for all schools is held in May. Students must apply for graduation via Albert and must be enrolled for either course work or maintenance of matriculation during the academic year of graduation. In order to graduate in a specific semester, students must apply for graduation within the application deadline period indicated on the calendar. (Students may view the graduation deadlines calendar and general information about graduation on the Office of the University Registrar’s web page at www.nyu.edu/registrar.) It is recommended that students apply for graduation no later than the beginning of the semester in which they plan to complete all program requirements. If a student does not successfully complete all academic requirements by the end of the semester, he or she must reapply for graduation for the following cycle.

GRADUATE PROGRAM COMMITTEE
NYU’s Graduate Program Committee reviews and recommends to the Provost the approval of proposals from colleges, schools, and portal campuses with respect to new graduate programs granting master’s and doctoral degrees. The Committee also may formulate recommendations to the Provost on other matters that relate to graduate education in the University. More information on the Graduate Program Committee is available at gsas.nyu.edu/about-gsas/standing-committees/nyu-graduate-program-committee.

Admission

Ph.D. REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION
Requirements for admission to the program include:
• M.S.W. degree with a graduate GPA of 3.0 or higher, based on a 4.0 scale;
• bachelor’s degree with an undergraduate GPA of 3.0 or higher, based on a 4.0 scale;
• competitive scores on the Graduate Record Examination (GRE), particularly in the quantitative reasoning and analytical writing sections;
• acceptable scores on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) for applicants whose first language is not English;
• a well-written statement of research interest; and
• three outstanding recommendations.

Note that post-M.S.W. practice experience is not a requirement, but at least three years of experience is recommended.

ADMISSION PROCEDURE
Applications are available online at socialwork.nyu.edu/admissions/PhD. Admission decisions are made by the admissions committee.

The application for admission consists of: (1) the completed application form; (2) a statement of research interest; (3) official transcripts from all graduate and undergraduate work; (4) a current curriculum vitae; (5) three professional references; (6) an official GRE (Graduate Record Examination) score report; and (7) a non-refundable application fee of $75.00, which must accompany the completed application and is not credited toward tuition.

International Applicants
Applicants whose native language is not English are required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Applicants who have earned a degree from an institution where the language of instruction is exclusively English, regardless of country, are exempt from submitting TOEFL scores.

The TOEFL should be taken far enough in advance of the term in which the applicant wishes to be admitted. An application is not complete until all official scores are submitted, and they must be submitted by the printed deadlines. Test scores are considered valid for two years. Applicants residing in the New York City area may take their English proficiency test at NYU’s American Language Institute, located at 7 East 12th St, New York, NY 10003. To make an appointment or for more information, call 212-998-7040 or visit ALI’s website at: www.scpss.nyu.edu/areas-of-study/american-language-institute/evaluation-registration.

All academic records and transcripts from international institutions must be submitted with an official translation to English. All applicants with international credentials are required to include a professional evaluation of the degree to determine if it is equivalent to a U.S. degree. We accept foreign credentials evaluated by companies listed at www.naces.org/members. Applicants with such credentials should file their applications well in advance of the term for which they are applying.

Applicants who are neither U.S. citizens nor permanent residents of the United States should see pages 63-64 for further information.

TRANSFER AND WAIVER CREDIT
Normally, credit for required courses in the Ph.D. program cannot be transferred from other institutions. For admissions purposes, transfer credit from other educational programs within the School or from other institutions is not usually allowed.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES
The Henry and Lucy Moses Center for Students with Disabilities was established to facilitate equal access to the programs and activities of New York University for students with disabilities. The center provides comprehensive services and programs for undergraduate and graduate students with visual, hearing, orthopedic, and chronic impairments as well as learning disabilities. Any student who plans to request a service or accommodation must register with the center at the beginning of the term for which service or accommodation is required. For further information, see the web page for the Moses Center for Students with Disabilities at www.nyu.edu/csd.
Tuition and Financial Aid

When estimating the cost of a university education, students should consider two factors: (1) the total cost of tuition, fees, and materials related to a particular program plus costs of living (housing, commuting, etc.); and (2) financial aid that may be available from the Silver School of Social Work Ph.D. program and other sources.

This section provides information on these two distinct but related topics.

TUITION AND FEES

The following is the schedule of fees established by the Board of Trustees of New York University for the academic year 2017-2018. The Board of Trustees reserves the right to alter this schedule without notice. Information on tuition and fees is available at socialwork.nyu.edu/admissions/phd/tuition-and-fees.

All fees are payable at the time of registration. Checks and drafts are to be drawn to the order of New York University for the exact amount of the tuition and fees required. In the case of overpayment, the balance is refunded on request by filing a refund application in the Office of the Bursar. A fee will be charged if payment is not made by the due date indicated on the student’s statement. The unpaid balance of a student’s account is also subject to an interest charge of 12 percent per annum from the day of class until payment is received.

Holders of New York State Tuition Assistance Program Awards will be allowed credit toward their tuition fees in the amount of their entitlement, provided that they are New York State residents, are enrolled on a full-time basis, and that they present the award certificate for the applicable term with their schedule/bill.

Students who receive awards after registration will receive a check from the University after the New York State payment has been received by the Office of the Bursar, and the Office of the University Registrar has confirmed eligibility.

DEFERRED PAYMENT PLAN

The Deferred Payment Plan allows you to pay 50 percent of your net balance due for the current term on the payment due date and defer the remaining 50 percent until later in the semester. This plan is available to students who meet the following eligibility requirements:

• matriculated and registered for six or more credits;
• no previously unsatisfactory University credit record; and
• not in arrears (past due) for any University charge or loan.

The plan includes a nonrefundable application fee of $50.00, which is to be included with the initial payment on the payment due date. Interest at a rate of 1 percent per month on the unpaid balance will be assessed if payment is not made in full by the final installment due date. A late-payment fee will be assessed on any late payments. For additional information, please contact the Office of the Bursar at 212-998-2806 or www.nyu.edu/bursar/payment.info/plans.html#defer.
TuitionPay Plan

TuitionPay is a payment plan administered by Sallie Mae that is open to all NYU Silver students. This interest-free plan allows for all or a portion of a student’s educational expenses (including tuition, fees, room, and board) to be paid in monthly installments.

The traditional University billing cycle consists of one large lump sum payment due at the beginning of each semester. TuitionPay is a budget plan that enables a student to spread payments over the course of the academic year. By enrolling in this plan, you spread your fall semester tuition payments over a four-month period (June through September) and your spring semester tuition payment over another four-month period (November through February).

With this plan, you budget the cost of your tuition and/or housing after deducting any financial aid you will be receiving and/or any payments you have made directly to NYU. A nonrefundable enrollment fee of $50.00 is required when applying for the fall/spring TuitionPay Plan. You must enroll in both the fall and spring plans. Monthly statements will be mailed by TuitionPay, and all payments should be made directly to them. For additional information, contact TuitionPay at 1-800-635-0120 or visit www.nyu.edu/bursar/payment.info/plans.html#tpp.

For Arrears Policy, Diploma Arrears Policy, Withdrawal and Refund of Tuition, and the Refund Period Schedule, see General Information for All Programs, pages 62-66.

FINANCIAL AID

All full-time students are awarded a Dean’s Fellowship for the first two years of study. The fellowship includes tuition and registration waivers, graduate student health insurance through NYU GSHIP, and a graduate assistantship stipend.

The School also provides assistance to students in applying for externally funded awards and fellowships for the dissertation phase of the program. Some of the awards our students have received include:

- Fahs-Beck Fund Doctoral Dissertation Grant
- Ruth L. Kirschstein National Research Service Award (NIMH F-31)
- CSWE Minority Fellowship Program
- Brown R25 Fellowship
- Diane Greenstein Memorial Fellowship
- Robert Moore Award for Excellence in Scholarship
- Jane Eisner Bram Award

Also, qualifying students may take advantage of the unsubsidized Stafford loan programs available.

Citizenship. In order to be eligible for financial aid from NYU and from federal and state government sources, students must be classified either as U.S. citizens or as eligible noncitizens. Students are considered to be eligible noncitizens for financial aid purposes if one of the following conditions applies: U.S. permanent resident with an Alien Registration Receipt Card I-551 ("green card"); or an eligible noncitizen with an arrival/departure record (I-94) showing any one of the following designations:

- "Refugee."
- "Indefinite Parole."
- "Humanitarian Parole."
- "Asylum Granted," or
- "Cuban-Haitian Entrant."

New York State Tuition Assistance Program

Legal residents of the state of New York who are enrolled in a full-time degree program of at least 12 credits a term, or the equivalent, may be eligible for awards under this program. The award varies, depending on income and tuition cost. Students applying for TAP must do so via the FAFSA application or they may contact the New York State Higher Education Services Corporation (HESC) at 1-888-NYS-HESC for an express TAP application. TAP change forms are also available at the HESC website. Return the completed application as instructed. Do not send the forms to NYU. For more information about TAP, visit www.nyu.edu/financial.aid/tap.

If you receive a TAP award for the fall or spring semester, you will be given a credit on your Bursar Statement of Account. Credit is not extended for the summer term because the state of New York defers payment on these awards. Students who are registered half-time for the summer will receive their TAP award at the end of the following year, if eligible. Students registered full-time will receive payment at the end of the fall semester of the same year. Students may receive TAP assistance for a maximum of four years of graduate study but not for more than eight years of combined graduate and undergraduate study, provided they fulfill all state requirements for award eligibility, such as those for attendance, academic progress, program pursuit, and income analysis.

Holders of New York State grants or fellowships may also receive the TAP award, but it cannot be more than the amount by which the tuition for the semester exceeds the grant or fellowship. A student who has tuition remission privileges from the University may be eligible for TAP funds. Consult the Office of the Bursar for further details.

Loan Programs

Federal Direct Loan Program

The Federal Direct Loan is obtained from the U.S. Department of Education. The total amount borrowed in any year may not exceed the cost of education minus the total family contribution and all other financial aid received that year. The interest rate is fixed at 6.0 percent for 2017-2018. Stafford loan payments are copayable to NYU and the student, and funds are applied first to any outstanding balance on the student’s account. An origination fee of 1 percent will be deducted from the loan funds.

As of fall 2012, graduate students qualify for only unsubsidized loans. For Federal Direct Unsubsidized loans, interest is accrued and added to the principal of the loan.

A graduate student may borrow up to a total of $20,500 to $10,250 per semester—in unsubsidized Direct loans.

For details about additional unsubsidized amounts available and the maximum aggregate limits for all Stafford loans combined, see our website at www.nyu.edu/admissions/financial-aid-and-scholarships/types-of-financial-aid.

Federal Direct PLUS Loan Program.

The PLUS loan enables qualifying graduate students to borrow up to the full amount of an NYU education... minors. A list of these opportunities is available from the program director.

(Nota: Registration in other than registered or approved programs may jeopardize eligibility for certain student aid)

Academic Policies

PLAGIARISM AND ACADEMIC INTEGRITY
NYU Silver’s Ph.D. program adheres to the National Association of Social Workers’ Code of Ethics (www.socialworkers.org/pubs/code/code.asp) and NYU’s Policy for the Academic Integrity for Students (http://www.nyu.edu/about/policies-guidelines-compliance/policies-and-guidelines/academic-integrity-for-students-at-nyu.html). More information on the program’s policy on Plagiarism and Academic Integrity is presented in the Ph.D. Student Manual available at socialwork.nyu.edu/academics/doctoral-program.

GRADES AND CREDIT
Policy and guidance on grades and incomplete grades are presented in the Ph.D. Student Manual. Students cannot be certified for graduation until all requirements are completed successfully.

REPETITION OF COURSES
1. Students must repeat a required course in which they receive a grade of “F” in order to receive credit for that course.
2. Students can repeat any non-required course in which they receive a grade of “F” in order to receive credit for that course.
3. Students can repeat a course only once.
4. In all cases, an original “F” grade continues to be included in the computation of the grade point average even if the course is repeated and passed successfully.
5. Students may not repeat courses in which they receive a grade of “C” or better.

WITHDRAWAL FROM COURSES
Students who are considering withdrawing from a class must discuss it with the professor and faculty advisor. Upon withdrawing from a class students are subject to University policy and will be held responsible for related tuition and fees. For more information regarding Withdrawal and Refund of Tuition, see General Information for All Programs, pages 62-66.

ACADEMIC PROBATION
A PhD student who is on academic probation is considered not to be in good academic standing. Students will be automatically placed on academic probation for any of the following reasons:
1. A grade-point average of less than 3.0
2. A grade of lower than B- in any course
3. Failure to complete course requirements (as indicated by grade of IP or IF) within one semester following the end of the semester in which the course was taken.
4. Inadequate performance in the research practicum

Academic probation triggers the formation of a status committee, which serves to help the student identify obstacles to remaining in good academic standing and provides guidance and support for helping the student plan for improvement. Status committees consist of three faculty members: the student’s advisor, a member of the doctoral program committee, and the director of the Ph.D. program.

Students who do not improve their academic performance sufficiently within one semester of being placed on academic probation will be dismissed from the program. The criteria for sufficient improvement are as follows: a grade-point average of 3.0 or higher; a grade of at least B- for any course that was incomplete; and no additional failures to complete course requirements (including the research practicum) in the probationary semester. Students must be in good academic standing in order to progress from the coursework phase of the program to the qualifying exam and the dissertation. When academic probation is triggered in a student’s final semester of coursework, a status committee will determine the requirement(s) for returning to good academic standing.

Scholarship and Fellowship Funds
A number of government agencies, foundations, and professional associations offer modest fellowship assistance for post-M.S.W. education in social work. Some of these support promising dissertation work. Others are designed to support the education of women and minorities. A list of these opportunities is available from the program director.

Doctor of Social Welfare (DSW) Program

Carol Tosone, Ph.D., Director, DSW Program

The DSW program in clinical social work (HEGIS code number 2104) is a practice-oriented doctoral degree, that prepares licensed social workers for leadership roles in academic and agency settings, a stance consistent with New York University’s core mission of being a private university in service of public interest. With an executive-style format, students can continue working full-time while attending the DSW program. Building on the NYU Silver School of Social Work’s recognized excellence in clinical social work education, the program offers state-of-the-art coursework on theory, evidence-based practices, research, and policy, as well as intensive writing workshops to assist in the development of publishable papers and presentation of work at professional conferences. Students are offered a choice of a teaching or supervisory internship, both geared toward the enhancement of advanced clinical practice knowledge and skills.

With New York as a major center of clinical services and social work practice with at-risk populations, and with the School’s strong reputation and tradition in clinical education, the DSW program will advance the profession’s scholarly focus on clinical social work.

The program is fortunate to have an outstanding faculty renowned for their clinical, theoretical, policy, and research expertise. The faculty serve in leadership roles in professional organizations, scholarly journals, national research committees, and taskforces.

Program Description

PROGRAM GOALS AND OBJECTIVES

As a professional practice doctoral degree, the purpose of the DSW program in clinical social work is to train advanced clinical social work practitioner-scholars to assume leadership positions in clinical social work education, agency-based behavioral health practice settings, and practice-based research. Through the promotion of practice-relevant scholarship, the DSW curriculum is designed to develop new clinical social work knowledge to advance social work practice and education, which will benefit the at-risk client populations that graduates serve. The program will build on and deepen the School’s reputation for excellence in clinical social work education.

Students fulfilling program requirements will demonstrate the following competencies:

- knowledge and sophisticated use and analysis of contemporary theories of clinical practice and the mechanisms of change that they encompass;
- knowledge of and sophisticated use and analysis of contemporary theories and research in human development, including those emerging from neuroscience;
- enhanced knowledge and ability to teach skills in clinical practice;
- the ability to be critical consumers of research relevant to social work practice and to contribute to the production and dissemination of clinically informed scholarship;
- knowledge of contemporary concepts in epistemology and theories of mind;
- knowledge of contemporary conceptions of social justice and their implications for clinical social work practice;
- understanding of policies that have an impact, both positive and negative, on clinical social work practice and the financing of social work services;
- participation in activities to prepare for the teaching of social work practice and theories of human behavior;
- the ability to critically review clinical literature and to contribute to professional practice literature; and
- the ability to assume leadership positions in the social work profession based on advanced knowledge of clinical social work practice.

DEGREE REQUIREMENTS

The requirements for the DSW degree in clinical social work are a completion of a minimum of 56.5 credits in course work beyond the master’s level. The graduation portfolio requirement consists of writing two publishable papers, and presentation at a professional conference.
CURRICULUM OVERVIEW AND COURSES

The D.S.W. program curriculum consists of 19 courses or workshops scheduled in the fall, spring, and summer semesters over a three-year period. GRADUATION APPLICATION

Students graduate in May, but September and January graduation may be possible with approval by the D.S.W. Program. The commencement ceremony for all schools is held in May. Students must apply for graduation via Albert and must be enrolled for either course work or maintenance of matriculation during the academic year of graduation. In order to graduate in a specific semester, students must apply for graduation within the application deadline period indicated on the calendar. (Students may view the graduation deadlines calendar and general information about graduation on the Office of the University Registrar’s web page at www.nyu.edu/registrar.)

It is recommended that students apply for graduation no later than the beginning of the semester in which they plan to complete all program requirements. If a student does not successfully complete all academic requirements by the end of the semester, he or she must reapply for graduation for the following cycle.

GRADUATE PROGRAM COMMITTEE

NYU’s Graduate Program Committee reviews and recommends to the Provost the approval of proposals from colleges, schools, and portal campuses with respect to new graduate programs granting master’s and doctoral degrees. The Committee also may formulate recommendations to the Provost on other matters that relate to graduate education in the University. More information on the Graduate Program Committee is available at gsas.nyu.edu/about-gsas/standing-committees/nyu-graduate-program-committee.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

The Henry and Lucy Moses Center for Students with Disabilities was established to facilitate equal access to the programs and activities of New York University for students with disabilities. The center provides comprehensive services and programs for undergraduate and graduate students with visual, hearing, orthopedic, and chronic impairments as well as learning disabilities. Any student who plans to request a service or accommodation must register with the center at the beginning of the term for which service or accommodation is requested. For further information, see the web page for the Moses Center for Students with Disabilities at www.nyu.edu/csd.
Admission

D.S.W. REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

- minimum of two years post-M.S.W. practice experience;
- L.M.S.W. or equivalent required with an L.C.S.W. or equivalent strongly preferred;
- competitive score on the Miller Analogies Test (MAT) completed within the past 12 months;
- international students are also required to submit TOEFL scores if English is not the first language;
- three academic or work-related letters of reference;
- current curriculum vitae/resume;
- a recent professional writing sample;
- statement of purpose; and

Note that post-M.S.W. practice experience is not a requirement, but at least three years of experience is recommended.

ADMISSION PROCEDURE

Applications are available online at socialwork.nyu.edu/admissions/dsw. In addition to the required admissions items noted above, the applicant must provide official transcripts of all colleges and universities attended. Admissions decisions are made by the program director and members of the D.S.W. Program Committee.

Please note a $75.00 nonrefundable application fee must accompany the completed application and is not credited toward tuition.

International Applicants

Applicants whose native language is not English are required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). Applicants who have earned a degree from an institution where the language of instruction is exclusively English, regardless of country, are exempt from submitting TOEFL scores.

The TOEFL should be taken far enough in advance of the term in which the applicant wishes to be admitted. An application is not complete until all official scores are submitted, and they must be submitted by the printed deadlines. Test scores are considered valid for two years. Applicants residing in the New York City area may take their English proficiency test at NYU’s American Language Institute, located at 7 East 12th St, New York, NY 10003. To make an appointment or for more information, call (212) 998-7040 or visit ALI’s website at: www.scps.nyu.edu/areas-of-study/american-language-institute/evaluation-registration. Since the D.S.W. is part-time, it does not qualify for an F-1 or J-1 student status. Please visit the Office of Global services for more information at 383 Lafayette Street or call (212) 998-4720.

All academic records and transcripts from international institutions must be submitted with an official translation to English. All applicants with international credentials are required to include a professional evaluation of the degree to determine if it is equivalent to a U.S. degree. We accept foreign credentials evaluated by companies listed at www.naces.org/members. Applicants with such credentials should file their applications well in advance of the term for which they are applying.

Applicants who are neither U.S. citizens nor permanent residents of the United States should see pages 63-64 for further information.

Tuition and Financial Aid

When estimating the cost of a university education, students should consider two factors: (1) the total cost of tuition, fees, and materials related to a particular program plus costs of living (housing, commuting, etc.); and (2) financial aid that may be available from the Silver School of Social Work D.S.W. program and other sources.

This section provides information on these two distinct but related topics.

TUITION AND FEES

The following is the schedule of fees established by the Board of Trustees of New York University for the year 2017-2018. The Board of Trustees reserves the right to alter this schedule without notice. Contact the Office of Admissions at 212-998-5910 or check the Admissions page on the School’s website for further information.

Note that the registration and services fee covers memberships, dues, etc., to the student’s class organization and entitles the student to membership in such University activities as are supported by this allocation. The student is also entitled to regularly receive those University and college publications that are supported in whole or in part by the student activities fund. It also includes the University’s health services, emergency and accident coverage, and technology fee.

All fees are payable at the time of registration. The Office of the Bursar is located at 383 Lafayette Street. Checks and drafts are to be drawn to the order of New York University for the exact amount of the tuition and fees required. In the case of overpayment, the balance is refunded on request by filing a refund application in the Office of the Bursar.

A fee will be charged if payment is not made by the due date indicated on the student’s statement.

The unpaid balance of a student’s account is also subject to an interest charge of 12 percent per annum from the first day of class until payment is received.

Students who receive awards after registration will receive a check from the University after the New York State payment has been received by the Office of the Bursar and the Office of the University Registrar has confirmed eligibility.

Estimate of Expenses for Full-Time Graduate Students

DEFERRED PAYMENT PLAN
The Deferred Payment Plan allows you to pay 50 percent of your net balance due for the current term on the payment due date and defer the remaining 50 percent until later in the semester. This plan is available to students who meet the following eligibility requirements:
• matriculated and registered for six or more credits;
• no previously unsatisfactory University credit record; and
• not in arrears (past due) for any University charge or loan.

The plan includes a nonrefundable application fee of $50.00, which is to be included with the initial payment on the payment due date. Interest at a rate of 1 percent per month on the unpaid balance will be assessed if payment is not made in full by the final installment due date. A late-payment fee will be assessed on any late payments. For additional information, please contact the Office of the Bursar at 212-998-2806.

TuitionPay Plan
TuitionPay is a payment plan administered by Higher One. The plan is open to all NYU students with the exception of the SPS noncredit division. This interest-free plan allows for all or a portion of a student’s educational expenses (including tuition, fees, room, and board) to be paid in monthly installments.

The traditional University billing cycle consists of one large lump sum payment due at the beginning of each semester. TuitionPay is a budget plan that enables a family to spread payments over the course of the academic year. By enrolling in this plan, you spread your fall semester tuition payments over a four-month period (June through September) and your spring semester tuition payment over another four-month period (November through February).

With this plan, you budget the cost of your tuition and/or housing after deducting any financial aid you will be receiving and/or any payments you have made directly to NYU.

A nonrefundable enrollment fee of $50.00 is required when applying for the fall/spring TuitionPay Plan. You must enroll in both the fall and spring plans. Monthly statements will be mailed by TuitionPay, and all payments should be made directly to them. For additional information, contact TuitionPay at 1-800-635-0120 or visit the NYU Bursar website at www.nyu.edu/bursar.

For Arrears Policy, Diploma Arrears Policy, Withdrawal and Refund of Tuition, and the Refund Period Schedule, see General Information for All Programs, pages 62-66.

FINANCIAL AID
New York University awards financial aid in an effort to help students meet the difference between their own resources and the cost of education. All awards are subject to availability of funds and the student’s demonstrated need. Renewal of assistance depends on annual reevaluation of a student’s need, the availability of funds, the successful completion of the previous year, and satisfactory progress toward completion of degree requirements.

In addition, students must meet the published filing deadlines. Detailed information about financial aid is also available on the Office of Financial Aid website at www.nyu.edu/financial.aid.

Many awards are granted purely on the basis of merit, while others are based on financial need. It is frequently possible to receive a combination of awards based on both.
University scholarships or fellowships may be granted by themselves or in conjunction with student loans or Federal Work-Study employment. To ensure that maximum sources of available support will be investigated, students must apply for financial aid by the appropriate deadlines.

It is the student’s responsibility to supply true, accurate, and complete information to the Office of Financial Aid and to inform the office immediately of any changes or corrections in his or her financial situation, enrollment status, or housing status, including tuition remission benefits, outside scholarships and grants, and state-sponsored, prepaid college-savings plans.

A student who has received a financial aid award must inform the Silver School of Social Work and the Office of Financial Aid if he or she subsequently decides to decline all or part of that award. To neglect to do so may prevent use of the award by another student. If a student has not claimed his or her award (has not enrolled) by the closing of regular (not late) registration and has not obtained written permission from the Silver School of Social Work and the Office of Financial Aid for an extension, the award may be canceled, and the student may become ineligible to receive scholarship or fellowship aid in future years.

Determination of financial need is also based on the number of courses for which the student indicates he or she intends to register. A change in registration therefore may necessitate an adjustment in financial aid.

How to Apply

Students must submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). The FAFSA (available online at www.fafsa.ed.gov) is the basic form for all student aid programs. Be sure to complete all sections. Students should give permission on the FAFSA for application data to be sent directly to New York University (the NYU federal code number is 002785).

Graduate students must consult the Financial Aid website or the Silver School of Social Work for financial aid deadlines.

Students requiring summer financial aid must be enrolled for a minimum of 6 credits.

Eligibility

Enrollment

To be considered for financial aid, students must be officially admitted to NYU or matriculated in a degree program and making satisfactory academic progress toward degree requirements. Students in certain certificate or diploma programs may also be eligible for consideration. Generally, University-administered aid is awarded to full-time students. Half-time students (fewer than 12 but at least 6 credits per semester) may be eligible for a Federal Stafford Loan or a Federal PLUS Loan, but they must also maintain satisfactory academic progress.

Renewal Eligibility

Financial aid awards are not automatically renewed each year. Continuing students must submit a FAFSA each year by the NYU deadline, continue to demonstrate financial need, make satisfactory progress toward degree requirements, and be in good academic standing.

Citizenship

In order to be eligible for aid from NYU and from federal and state government sources, students must be classified either as U.S. citizens or as eligible noncitizens. Students are considered to be eligible for financial aid purposes if one of the following conditions applies: U.S. permanent resident with an Alien Registration Receipt Card I-551 (“green card”).

Other eligible noncitizen with an Arrival-Departure Record (I-94) showing any one of the following designations:
- “Refugee,”
- “Indefinite Parole,”
- “Humanitarian Parole,”
- “Asylum Granted,” or
- “Cuban-Haitian Entrant.”

Withdrawal

Students should follow the official academic withdrawal policy described in this bulletin. Those receiving federal aid who withdraw completely may be billed for remaining balances resulting from the mandatory return of funds to the U.S. government. The amount of federal aid “earned” up to that point is determined by the withdrawal date and a calculation based on the federally prescribed formula.

Generally, federal assistance is earned on a pro-rata basis.

For more information regarding Withdrawal and Refund of Tuition, see General Information for All Programs, page 62-66.

LOAN PROGRAMS

Federal Direct Loan Program

The Federal Direct Loan Program is obtained from the U.S. Department of Education. The total amount borrowed in any year may not exceed the cost of education minus the total family contribution and all other financial aid received that year. The interest rate is fixed at 6.0 percent for 2017-2018. Stafford loan payments are copayable to NYU and the student, and funds are applied first to any outstanding balance on the student’s account. An origination fee of 1 percent will be deducted from the loan funds.

As of fall 2012, graduate students qualify for only unsubsidized loans. For Federal Direct Unsubsidized loans, interest is accrued and added to the principal of the loan.

A graduate student may borrow up to a total of $20,500—$10,250 per semester—in unsubsidized Direct loans.

For details about additional unsubsidized amounts available and the maximum aggregate limits for all Stafford loans combined, see our website at www.nyu.edu/admissions/financial-aid-and-scholarships/types-of-financial-aid.

Federal Direct PLUS Loan Program

The PLUS loan enables graduate students to borrow up to the full amount of an NYU education minus other aid. The interest rate is fixed at 7.0 percent. An origination fee of 4.27 percent will be deducted from the loan funds. PLUS loan disbursements are made copayable to NYU and the student, and funds are applied first to the current year’s outstanding balance on the student’s account.

Private Loans

A private (nonfederal) loan may be a financing option for students who are not eligible for federal aid or who need additional funding beyond the maximum amounts offered by federal loans. For more information on the terms and conditions of suggested private loans (as well as applica-
PLAGIARISM AND ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

NYU Silver’s D.S.W. program adheres to the National Association of Social Workers’ Code of Ethics (www.socialworkers.org/pubs/code/code.asp) and NYU's Policy for the Academic Integrity for Students (www.nyu.edu/about/policies-guidelines-compliance/policies-and-guidelines/academic-integrity-for-students-at-nyu). More information on the program’s policy on Plagiarism and Academic Integrity is presented in the D.S.W. Student Manual available at socialwork.nyu.edu/academics/dsw-program.

ADVANCE CREDIT

A maximum of six advance credits can be awarded toward the requirement of the D.S.W. degree if a Ph.D.-level social work course was taken at NYU or another institution that is analogous to an existing D.S.W. course. The following criteria must be met in order for advance credit to be considered:

- receive a passing grade or letter grade of B or higher;
- the course must have been taken within the past five years.

You can apply for advance credit if you have completed a comparable Ph.D. course in social work and the course taken was not used towards receipt of another degree. Advance credit allows you to replace required NYU D.S.W. coursework with coursework taken at another school. To apply submit the following with your request for advance credit:

- official transcript with grades;
- syllabus and reading list for each course.

Requests and supporting documents must be submitted to the D.S.W. program administrator. The D.S.W. Program Committee requires requests to be submitted at least six weeks prior to the beginning of the semester one would take the course for which the advance credit is being sought.

GRADES AND CREDIT

Policy and guidance on grades and incomplete grades are presented in the D.S.W. Student Manual. Students cannot be certified for graduation until all requirements are completed successfully.

REPERITION OF COURSES

1. Students must repeat a required course in which they receive a Fail in order to receive credit for that course.
2. Students can repeat a course only once.
3. Students may not repeat courses in which they receive a Pass.

WITHDRAWAL FROM COURSES

Students who are considering withdrawing from a class must discuss it with the professor and program director. Upon withdrawing from a class students are subject to University policy and will be held responsible for related tuition and fees. For more information regarding Withdrawal and Refund of Tuition, see General Information for All Programs, pages 62-66.

ACADEMIC PROBATION

A D.S.W. student who is on academic probation is considered not to be in good academic standing. Students will be automatically placed on academic probation for any of the following reasons:

1. Receiving a “Fail” in a course.
2. Failure to complete course requirements (as within one semester following the end of the semester in which the course was taken).
3. Inadequate performance in internship.

Academic probation triggers the formation of a status committee, which serves to help the student identify obstacles to remaining in good academic standing and provides guidance and support for helping the student plan for improvement. Status Committees consist of three faculty members: the student’s advisor/mentor, a member of the D.S.W. Program Committee, and the Director of the D.S.W. program.

Students who do not improve their academic performance sufficiently within one semester of being placed on academic probation will be dismissed from the program. The criteria for sufficient improvement are as follows: 1) adherence to standards for attendance, 2) completion of all incomplete and/or failed coursework, and 3) satisfactorily addressing other issues as indicated by the Status Committee, and no additional failures to complete course and workshop requirements (including internship) in the probationary semester. When academic probation is triggered in a student’s final semester of coursework, a status committee will determine the requirement(s) for returning to good academic standing.

OFFICIAL TRANSCRIPTS

Official copies of your University transcript can be requested when a stamped and sealed copy of your University records is required. Requests for official transcripts require the signature of the student/alumnus requesting the transcript, unless the student/alumnus has a valid NetID.

A paper transcript may be requested by either: (1) requesting a copy via your Albert Student Center (under the My Academics section) or (2) completing the online request form at www.nyu.edu/registrar and mailing/faxing the signature page. Our fax number is 212-995-4154; our mailing address is New York University, Office of the University Registrar, Transcripts Department, P.O. Box 910, New York, NY 10276-0910.

NYU also offers eTranscripts (secure PDF versions of Official transcripts) via the National Student Clearinghouse. You can request an official eTranscript (fee applies) via your Albert Student Center (under the My Academics section of Student Center).

Transcripts cannot be produced for anyone whose record has been put on hold for an outstanding University obligation.

Before you complete your request, please check to ensure that all your grades have been posted. Students are able to access their grades at the end of each semester via Albert.

Unofficial transcripts are available on Albert, NYU’s Web-based registration and information system. Albert can be accessed via NYUHome at home.nyu.edu.

More detailed information is available at www.nyu.edu/students/student-information-and-resources/registration-records-and-graduation/transcripts-certifications-grades/transcripts. If you have any questions or concerns, please contact the office at 212-998-4280, and a representative will assist you.

INFORMATION ON HOW TO REQUEST ENROLLMENT VERIFICATION

The Enrollment Verification will provide details on whether you are enrolled full time, half time, or less than half time for the current semester or for all of the semesters that you have been enrolled at NYU. Enrollment certifications are frequently needed to verify your eligibility for health insurance coverage, certain types of financial aid, and other services that are available to individuals enrolled in colleges and universities.

You can view/print your enrollment certification directly from Albert using the integrated National Student Clearinghouse student portal. This feature can be accessed from the “Request Enrollment Verification” link in the My Academics section of Student Center. Students with a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or above are also able to view/print a Good Student Discount Certificate, which can be mailed to an auto insurer or any other company that requests proof of your status as a good student.

ARREARS POLICY

The University reserves the right to deny registration and withhold the transcript and diploma of any student who is in arrears in the payment of tuition, fees, loans, or other charges (including charges for housing, dining, or other activities or services) for as long as any arrears remain.

Diploma Arrears Policy

Diplomas of students in arrears will be held until their financial obligations to the University are fulfilled and they have been cleared by the Bursar. Graduates with a diploma hold may contact the Office of the Bursar at 212-998-2806 to clear arrears or to discuss their financial status at the University.

WITHDRAWAL AND REFUND OF TUITION

A student who for any reason finds it impossible to complete a course for which he or she has registered should consult with an academic adviser at the Silver School of Social Work. The student may withdraw from courses on Albert. After the first two full weeks of the term, students must obtain approval from the Silver School of Social Work Office of Enrollment Services. (Note: An official withdrawal must be filed if a course has been canceled, and, in this case, the student is entitled to a refund of tuition and fees paid.) Withdrawal does not necessarily entitle the student to a refund of tuition paid or a cancellation of tuition still due. A refund of tuition will be made provided such withdrawal is filed within the scheduled refund period for the term (see schedule below).

Merely ceasing to attend a class does not constitute official withdrawal, nor does notification to the instructor. A stop payment of a check presented for tuition does not constitute withdrawal, nor does it reduce the indebtedness to the University. The nonreturnable registration fee and a penalty fee of $20.00 for a stopped payment must be charged in addition to any tuition not canceled.

The date on which the Class Withdrawal is requested, not the last date of attendance in class, is considered the official date of withdrawal. It is this date that serves as the basis for computing any refund granted the student.

REFUND OF TUITION

It is this date that serves as the basis for computing any refund granted the student.
The refund period (see schedule below) is defined as the first four calendar weeks of the term for which application for withdrawal is filed. The processing of refunds takes approximately two weeks.

Undergraduate Refund Schedule

(fall and spring terms only)

Courses dropped during the first two weeks of the semester 100%

Withdrawal within the second calendar week of classes 70%

Withdrawal within the third calendar week of classes 55%

Exceptions to the published refund schedule may be appealed in writing to the refund committee of the Silver School of Social Work and should be supported by appropriate documentation regarding the circumstances that warrant consideration of an exception. Exceptions are rarely granted. Students who withdraw should review the Refunds page on the Office of the Bursar’s website at www.nyu.edu/bursar.

Federal regulations require adjustments reducing financial aid if a student withdraws even after the NYU refund period. Financial aid amounts will be adjusted for students who withdraw through the ninth week of the semester and have received any federal grants or loans. This adjustment may result in the student’s bill not being fully paid. NYU will bill the student for this difference. The student will be responsible for payment of this bill before returning to NYU and will remain responsible for payment even if he or she does not return to NYU.

For any semester a student receives any aid, that semester will be counted in the satisfactory academic progress standard. This may require the student to make up credits before receiving any further aid. Please review the Satisfactory Academic Progress standard for the Silver School of Social Work so you do not jeopardize future semesters of aid.

APPLICANTS WITH INTERNATIONAL CREDENTIALS

Undergraduate

Applicants to New York University who are neither U.S. citizens nor permanent residents of the United States must complete an application for admission to undergraduate study. Instructions are available online at www.admissions.nyu.edu. Please indicate on the application for admission your country of citizenship and, if you currently reside in the United States, your current immigration status.

First-year applicants (those who are currently attending or who previously completed secondary school only) must submit applications and all required credentials on or before November 1 for consideration in the Early Decision I pool, or January 1 for consideration in the Early Decision II or Regular Decision pools. Transfer applicants (as defined at www.admissions.nyu.edu) seeking admission for the fall semester must submit applications and all required credentials on or before April 1. Transfer candidates seeking admission for the spring (January) semester must submit applications and credentials on or before November 1. Applications will not be processed until all supporting credentials are received by the Office of Undergraduate Admissions.
All first year applicants are required to submit standardized testing results. Options include official results of the SAT Reasoning Test; the ACT; three SAT Subject Test scores (one in literature or the humanities, one in math or science, and one test of the student’s choice); three AP exam scores (one in literature or the humanities, one in math or science, and one of the student's choice); the International Baccalaureate Diploma; or three IB higher-level exam scores (if you are not an IB Diploma candidate). Students may instead elect to submit results from a nationally accredited exam; a list of accepted exams is available at admissions.nyu.edu under the “Standardized Tests” tab of the application instructions. Predicted scores for the IB Diploma or other nationally accredited exams may also be used as testing.

All documents submitted for review must be official; that is, they must be either originals or copies certified by authorized persons. A “certified” photocopy or other copy is one that bears either an original signature of the registrar or other designated school official or an original impression of the institution’s seal. Uncertified photocopies are not acceptable. If these official documents are in a foreign language, they must be accompanied by an official English translation.

In addition, applicants whose native language is not English may be required to submit results from the TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language), IELTS (International English Language Testing System), PTE (Pearson’s Test of English Academic), or CAE/CPE (Cambridge English Advanced/Proficiency). In certain cases a student may be exempt from English language testing; such instances are outlined on the “English Language Testing” page of the Admissions website. Each student must request that his or her score on this examination be sent to the Undergraduate Admissions Processing Center. The NYU code for TOEFL is 2562.

See also All Candidates, below.

Graduate

Those interested in graduate study can access the online application and additional information from the School’s website at socialwork.nyu.edu or from the NYU Silver School of Social Work Office of Admissions and Enrollment Services, Ehrenkrantz Center, One Washington Square North, New York, NY 10003-6654, U.S.A. All applicants for graduate study with foreign undergraduate credentials must pay an application fee, regardless of their status (U.S. citizen, permanent resident, nonimmigrant visa, etc.). All graduate applicants with foreign undergraduate credentials will require a transcript evaluation; therefore, all international applicants must ensure that certified English translations accompany all documents written in languages other than English. Translations must be literal and complete versions of the original records.

Applicants for graduate study whose native language is not English must take the TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) or the International English Language Testing System (IELTS). Each student must request that his or her score on these examinations be sent to the NYU Silver School of Social Work (test code 2506). Information concerning the TOEFL examination may be obtained by writing directly to TOEFL/ETS, P.O. Box 6151, Princeton, NJ 08541, U.S.A., or by visiting the website at www.toefl.org.

Applicants residing in the New York area may elect to take the English proficiency test at the University’s American Language Institute, located at 7 E. 12th St, New York, NY 10003, U.S.A. An appointment to take the test may be made by telephoning 212-998-7040.

All Candidates

Non-U.S. citizens and non-U.S. permanent residents who are accepted to New York University will receive instructions via e-mail on how to apply for a student visa for the U.S. The application is handled by the NYU Office of Global Services. If the applicant’s studies are being financed by means of his or her own savings, parental support, outside private or government scholarships, or any combination of these, he or she must arrange to send official letters or similar certification as proof of such support. New students may view a video on how to get a visa to study at NYU and find step-by-step guided instructions on getting a visa, transitioning to life in New York, and getting involved at NYU as an international student at www.nyu.edu/students/student-information-and-resources/student-visa-and-immigration/newly-admitted.html.

See also contact information for Office of Global Services, page 68.

VETERANS’ BENEFITS

Various Department of Veterans Affairs programs provide educational benefits for spouses, sons, and daughters of deceased or permanently disabled veterans, as well as for veterans and in-service personnel, subject to certain restrictions. Under most programs the student pays tuition and fees at the time of registration but will receive a monthly allowance from Veterans Affairs.

Veterans with service-connected disabilities may qualify for educational benefits under Chapter 31. An applicant for this program is required to submit to the Department of Veterans Affairs a letter of acceptance from the college he or she wishes to attend. On meeting the requirements for the Department of Veterans Affairs, the applicant will be given an Authorization for Education (VA Form 22-1905), which must be presented to the Office of the University Registrar, 25 West Fourth Street, 1st Floor, before registering for coursework.

All Veterans: Allowance checks are usually sent directly to veterans by the Department of Veterans Affairs. Veterans and eligible dependents should contact the Office of the University Registrar each term for which they desire Veterans Affairs certification of enrollment.

All veterans are expected to reach the objective (bachelor’s or master’s degree, doctorate, or certificate) authorized by Veterans Affairs with the minimum number of points required. The Department of Veterans Affairs may not authorize allowance payments for credits that are in excess of scholastic requirements, that are taken for audit purposes only, or for which nonpunitive grades are received.

Applications and further information may be obtained from the student’s regional office of the Department of Veterans Affairs. Additional guidance may be obtained from the Office of the University Registrar, 383 Lafayette Street.

Since interpretation of regulations governing veterans’ benefits is subject to change, veterans should keep in touch with the Department of Veterans Affairs or with NYU’s Office of the University Registrar.

Yellow Ribbon GI Education Enhancement Program

NYU is pleased to be participating in the Yellow Ribbon GI Education Enhancement Program (Yellow Ribbon Program), a provision of the Post 9/11 Veterans Educational Assistance Act of 2008. Yellow Ribbon is a scholarship designed to help students supplement their post-9/11 GI bill tuition benefits.

NYU has expanded the program’s eligibility to include both full- and part-time graduate and professional students. All NYU undergraduate, graduate, and professional schools are participating in the program for 2017-2018.

NYU Silver will provide funds toward tuition and fees and Veterans’ Affairs (VA) will match NYU Silver’s contribution for each eligible veteran student. The amount of Yellow Ribbon scholarship awarded is determined by the amount of other benefits provided to an eligible student. First, post-9/11 GI benefits are applied toward tuition and fees. The Yellow Ribbon award from the Silver School is up to $7,500 and the VA will match up to $7,500 in tuition and fees per academic year or tuition and fees not covered by post-9/11 GI bill benefits.

Yellow Ribbon recipients should be aware that NYU Silver is committed to our students who are veterans but must also take into account our limited scholarship funds and the needs of all of our eligible students. Undergraduate students receiving Yellow Ribbon benefits who have also been awarded NYU scholarship may receive combined veterans’ benefits, Yellow Ribbon benefits, and NYU scholarship up to, but not exceeding, their tuition and fees.

A student receiving Yellow Ribbon funds is still eligible for a separate NYU Silver tuition scholarship. For both graduate and undergraduate students, the Yellow Ribbon award may affect other types of financial aid, since total financial aid from all sources cannot exceed a student’s cost of attendance.

To be considered for the Yellow Ribbon benefits an individual must meet the criteria to receive the maximum post-9/11 GI bill benefit. An individual may be eligible for the Yellow Ribbon enhancement if:
- he/she served an aggregate period of active duty after September 10, 2001, of at least 36 months;
- he/she was honorably discharged from active duty due to a service-connected disability and had served 30 continuous days after September 10, 2001; or
- he/she is a dependent eligible for Transfer of Entitlement under the post-9/11 GI bill based on a veteran’s service under the eligibility criteria, as described on the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs website.

The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is currently accepting applications for the Post-9/11 GI Bill benefits. To qualify for the Yellow Ribbon enhancement, you must apply to the VA. The VA will determine your eligibility for the post-9/11 GI bill, and if you qualify, they will issue you a Certificate of Eligibility. NOTE: You can apply using the VA Form 22-1990. The form includes the instructions needed to begin the process.

The Office of the University Registrar will notify the Office of Financial Aid and the Office of the Bursar once an individual’s eligibility is confirmed. The Office of the University Registrar will inform the Department of Veterans Affairs if the enrollment criteria are not met. Funds are subject to return if the student does not maintain a required level of enrollment.

NYU’s Office of Institutional Research is the University’s central data resource whose mission is to guide the University’s administrative and operational units for effective University growth and planning through analysis, information dissemination, decision support, and technical data expertise.

DISCIPLINE

Students are expected to familiarize themselves and to comply with the rules of conduct, academic regulations, and established practices of the University and of the Silver School of Social Work. If, pursuant to such rules, regulations, and practices, the withdrawal of a student is required before the end of the term for which tuition has been paid, a refund will be made according to the standard schedule for refunds.

UNIVERSITY POLICY ON WEAPONS

New York University strictly prohibits the use or possession of any Weapon or Simulated Weapon by any person (i) in and/or around any and all NYU facilities (whether academic, residential, or other) that are owned, leased, or controlled by NYU, regardless of whether the bearer or possessor is licensed to carry that Weapon, and (ii) at any NYU-sponsored activity or event, whether in an NYU facility or a non-NYU facility, including any participant or attendee an NYU-sponsored events or programs. This prohibition does not apply to sworn federal, state or local law enforcement officers who are legally authorized to carry firearms in the jurisdiction and are in NYU facilities or events in the course of their official duties and/or at the request of NYU. Law enforcement officers bringing weapons to NYU premises must carry valid identification that establishes their law enforcement status. Authorized possession of a firearm on NYU premises must at all times be discreet and out of view of any casual observer. Possession and use of simulated weapons for theatrical purposes, including stage and film productions, are addressed in the University’s Theatrical Use of Simulated Weapons Policy.

Please visit www.nyu.edu/about/policies-guidelines-compliance/policies-and-guidelines/weapons-and-simulated-weapons-policy for definitions of the terms in this policy.
UNIVERSITY POLICY ON SIMULATED FIREARMS

New York University strictly prohibits the possession of simulated firearms and weapons in and around any facility owned or controlled by the University except when the bearer is in possession of written approval or permit from a dean or department head or a dean or department head’s designee. The criteria for granting written approval or permits, including completion of required training, and the procedures for safe use of simulated firearms and weapons will be determined by the dean of the school in which the theatrical production occurs. Possession of a simulated firearm or weapon may be authorized and such possession permitted only if it is directly connected to a University-or School-related theatrical production (e.g., stage play or film production) or rehearsals for such production.

Please visit www.nyu.edu/about/policies-guidelines-compliance/policies-and-guidelines/theatrical-use-of-simulated-weapons-policy.html for the terms that apply when an individual is appropriately authorized to possess a simulated firearm or weapon for theatrical use at NYU.

CAMPUS SAFETY

The Department of Public Safety is located at 7 Washington Place; 212-998-2222; 212-998-2220 (TTY). New York University’s annual Campus Security Report includes statistics for the previous three years concerning reported crimes that occurred on campus, in certain off-campus buildings or property owned or controlled by NYU, and on public property within or immediately adjacent to the campus. The report also includes institutional policies concerning campus security, such as policies concerning sexual assault, drugs, and alcohol. You can obtain a copy of the current report by going to www.nyu.edu/life/safety-health-wellness/be-safe/public-safety and selecting “Crime Reports and Statistics” from the left sidebar.

IMMUNIZATION REQUIREMENTS

Immunization documentation is required by the State of New York of all students (graduate, undergraduate, transfers, and returning students who, to date, have not complied) taking six or more credits in a degree-granting institution. Such students must provide proof of immunity to measles, mumps, and rubella and acknowledge receipt of information regarding meningococcal disease or provide proof of meningococcal vaccine.

The detailed Student Policy on immunization, including compliance deadlines, can be found at www.nyu.edu/about/policies-guidelines-compliance/policies-and-guidelines/student-immunization-policy.

UNIVERSITY POLICY ON INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Students offered research opportunities are reminded that inventions arising from participation in such research are governed by the University’s Statement of Policy on Intellectual Policy a copy of which may be found in the Faculty Handbook or obtained online at www.nyu.edu/about/policies-guidelines-compliance/policies-and-guidelines/policy-intellectual-property.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

The Henry and Lucy Moses Center for Students with Disabilities was established to facilitate equal access to the programs and activities of New York University for students with disabilities. The center provides comprehensive services and programs for undergraduate and graduate students with visual, hearing, orthopedic, and chronic impairments as well as learning disabilities. Any student who plans to request a service or accommodation must register with the center at the beginning of the term for which service or accommodation is requested. For further information, see the web page for the Moses Center for Students with Disabilities at www.nyu.edu/csd.

GRADUATION APPLICATION

Students may officially graduate in September, January, or May. The Commencement ceremony for all schools is held in May. Students must apply for graduation via Albert and must be enrolled for either course work or maintenance of matriculation during the academic year of graduation. In order to graduate in a specific semester, students must apply for graduation within the application deadline period indicated on the calendar. (Students may view the graduation deadlines calendar and general information about graduation on the Office of the University Registrar’s web page at www.nyu.edu/registrar.)

It is recommended that students apply for graduation no later than the beginning of the semester in which they plan to complete all program requirements. If a student does not successfully complete all academic requirements by the end of the semester, he or she must reapply for graduation for the following cycle.

GRADUATE PROGRAM COMMITTEE

NYU’s Graduate Program Committee reviews and recommends to the Provost the approval of proposals from colleges, schools, and portal campuses with respect to new graduate programs granting master’s and doctoral degrees. The Committee also may formulate recommendations to the Provost on other matters that relate to graduate education in the University. More information on the Graduate Program Committee is available at gsas.nyu.edu/about-gsas/standing-committees/nyu-graduate-program-committee.

THE SILVER SCHOOL OF SOCIAL WORK ALUMNI NETWORK
Silver School of Social Work graduates are advocates and activists. They are passionate about finding practical ways to help others lead healthy lives. NYU Silver graduates pursue careers in every facet of community life—from mental-health workers and family mediators to community organizers, policy makers, and corporate executives. While their fields vary, they share the distinctive dedication and leadership necessary to achieve remarkable careers. NYU faculty, students, and alumni participate in an active professional network, often leading to alumni-mentored field placements as well as research collaboration and career opportunities.

The School’s Alumni Network—more than 18,000 working professionals—constitutes a major social work resource in the metropolitan area and across the country, providing services, leadership, and education. Most of our alumni work directly with individuals, groups, and families in need or provide the leadership that makes such professional work possible and effective. They operate in a variety of settings—connecting clients with resources, managing complex service needs, or providing mental-health interventions.
